Cost of library annex may approach $1 million

By MICHAEL GARDNER

A HARRISON Memorial Library annex will cost approximately $905,000, according to a preliminary report.

Bill Foster, of the Monterey architectural firm Hall, Goodhue, Haisley and Barker, presented the "probable" cost report to the board of trustees Tuesday afternoon.

Meanwhile the Carmel Planning Commission is expected to review the proposed concept design for the annex when it meets at 4 p.m. Wednesday, April 30 at city hall.

And the new city council will discuss the proposed annex at its initial meeting of May 6. It will be the first official session for new Mayor Clint Eastwood and just-elected Councilmembers Elinor Laiolo and Bob Fischer.

The library board has a $1.2 million endowment fund to finance the annex, proposed for the northeast corner of Lincoln Street and Sixth Avenue.

Foster's preliminary estimate does not include the cost of the proposed 20-space underground parking garage which the city plans to build in conjunction with the annex.

Foster told library trustees (Ron Kabat and Bernard Anderson were absent) that "you won't have hard figures until we come down to construction bid."

In his preliminary budget report, Foster listed the approximate line item costs as follows: $624,500 for general construction of the building, $75,000 for architectural fees, $55,000 for bookshelves and $70,000 for the furnishings.

In addition, Foster projected sitework costs as being: utilities, $13,000; paving, walkways, curbs and gutters, $33,000; walls, $18,000; water and sewage connection fees and permits $7,500 and miscellaneous, $9,000.

Not included in the cost estimate, Foster said, are: the proposed remodeling of the existing building, allowance for rising costs if construction is delayed, landscaping and a contingency for emergencies.

The library board has indicated it hopes the city will help pay for the estimated $80,500 sitework price tag since those costs

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Letters to the editor are welcome. Views on all matters are acceptable, following the guidelines of good taste. While there is no limit on length, brevity is encouraged. Letters are subject to editing for style and length. Each letter must contain name, address and signature. A phone number is needed for verification only. Anonymous letters are not accepted, but names of letter writers may be withheld upon request.

Your old pal Don

Dear Editor:

Although I didn't get myself elected, I sure don't feel like a loser. I think the whole campaign was more fun than a barrel of monkeys.

I send my congratulations to Clint, Bob and Elinor. I'm sure they'll do just fine and make us all proud of them. There's a lot to be done and we're lucky to have good people to do it. Now I need to tell some people "Thank You."

First of all I need to thank Bud and Laurie at Bartlett Music for helping me with my campaign by letting me hang out the front door and speak to people on Dolores Street. I got to meet some real nice folks that way.

Thank you to the 109 people who gave me their votes. I'd have felt like a total fool without you.

To the rest of the folks in town, I wish you the best and I promise that you haven't heard the last from old Don. Thank you for your respect and consideration.

Marathon rip-off?

Dear Editor:

There are several things about the Big Sur Marathon that disturb me. The first is the right to close off a major highway, which is what Highway 1 is since it is a direct route up and down the coast as well as the only way anyone living in the area can get in and out of their homes. There is no alternate route and they, as well as all travelers, are denied access for six hours.

Second, an article in the local daily on March 4 stated that the marathon already had about 1,200 runners at an entry fee of $25. By my figures 1,200 people at $25 a head totals $30,000. It stated that after the date of April 13 anyone entering would have to pay a fee of $40. Even if no one else entered after the date of the article, the total aready collected is $30,000. By the time of the race the amount can very well be double that — if not more.

Since there will be 100 volunteers, the only expense listed will be $1,500 to $2,000 for six CalTrans men working overtime. Where will the balance of the money go, since the article stated that there will be no profit for charity this year and no prizes are mentioned? The time CalTrans has already put in, plus the CHP who will be running convoys will be at the taxpayers expense. Are we being ripped off as well as inconvenienced?

Disruption, inconvenience

Dear Editor:

Mark Sunday, April 27 on your calendar for the Big Sur Marathon. Highway 1 will be closed from Carmel's Rio Road to Big Sur from 8 a.m. until 2 p.m. This really means all day considering the traffic problems which will ensue.

Forget about going to church that Sunday....Don't plan any picnics at Point Lobos, and don't plan on skin diving at Monastery Beach....Don't plan on a drive to Big Sur or Hearst Castle...the road will be closed to all but runners!

Tell visiting relatives and friends they can't come that Sunday, and, if they are here, they can't leave until Monday as the stack up of cars after a six-hour closure will be wondrous to behold!

All of this disruption and inconvenience so that a small minority can stage a marathon race to Big Sur. And, it will not even benefit charity!

Parking plans

Dear Editor:

The Wall Street Journal March 13 describes a new fully-automated garage to be installed in St. Louis, permitting 168 cars to be parked, profitably, in place of a previous 112, and forecasts that "this may soon become common where land is at a premium."

In 1979, a project was under consideration for parking on the four lots, two owned by the library and two owned by the Pine Inn, Lincoln Sixth and Monte Verde. The very advantageous ground slopes would permit three levels, mostly underground, and three street entrances.

I obtained from a Swiss manufacturer, and submitted to the city a study by them, with costs, of the possible merits of "pallet parking" at multilevels, (similar to the scheme described in the WSJ) and based on installations then operating in Switzerland.

If Carmel is to consider parking on the North end of Sunset Center, it would, I believe, be negligent to approve any plan, unless it be chosen as the preferred of all of many alternatives; considering the eventual planning of the whole area of Sunset Center; alternative numbers of levels of underground parking levels (maybe even five levels with some God-given access from Junipero); and automated parking.

Maybe one alternative could be self-financing.

Economic conversion

Dear Editor:

We must realize that national security is more than the building of a strong defensive deterrent. It also depends on the maintenance of a strong and vital economy built on a solid infrastructure with opportunities for dynamic businesses to grow.

Therefore, economic conversion is imperative. This involves reorienting national economic priorities to rebuild our productive capacity and meet human needs, revitalizing the economies of military-dependent communities, and transforming defense plants to civilian uses.

More jobs are created with civilian production than with military. Moving $10 billion out of military procurement into industries which would help our national security by making us energy independent will add 34,000-72,000 more jobs to the economy.

If every person directly affected by a $10 billion military procurement cut was laid off for one year, it would be possible to pay each individual 90 percent of his or her salary up to $25,000, continue all job-related benefits, and provide each person with $1,500 to go back to school at a total cost of under $3 billion, or only 30 cents on every procurement dollar spent.

Economic conversion would open more jobs for seven out of the eight major occupational categories. The average American is better off with economic conversion.

Military spending has been an important reason for the deficit spending of the federal government which has been borrowing almost $1 billion a week for years. There are better ways to solve our problems.

A moral question

Dear Editor:

Regardless of the future legal status of abortion, moral questions will remain. In the moral sphere we must set our course in the light of religious traditions and our own conscience.

Like most religious traditions the Christian tradition places love and reverence for life above other virtues such as self-restraint of lying, theft, dissipation and greed. This order of priorities is also found in the ethical rules of Patanjali, who lived in India while the Ptolemies ruled in Egypt.

Starting with the sixth commandment, the second half of the law of Moses deals with the individual in her community, placing primary emphasis upon reverence for life. However, the sixth commandment has often been subject to narrow legalistic interpretations.

Albert Schweitzer interpreted "Thou shalt not kill" in the broadest sense and considered reverence for life a precondition for all other moral virtues. Without reverence for life he feared that the pursuit of any other virtue could easily become injurious, evoking needless enmity. Schweitzer felt that we could express homage to life by trying to avoid needless injury to the other creatures with whom we share our mother earth. Although it is impossible to live without ever injuring another creature, Schweitzer felt that we should at least try to minimize our damage.

We will always differ in our priorities, but I pray that anyone would pause to consider whether abortion is the least injurious alternative available to them, and not treat it as a mere convenience. There are times when we may find it necessary to place personal, eugenic, demographic, economic or other concerns above moral concerns, but when such crises have passed I hope we will not have permanently compromised or abandoned a primary moral commitment.

Regardless of its legal status our use of abortion also characterizes our conscience both as individuals and as a nation.

FOCUS extends thanks

Dear Editor:

The Friends of Carmel Unified Schools (FOCUS) would like to thank David Maxner and the members of the Merrill Lynch Securities office located at the mouth of Carmel Valley for their support in our recent Phon-A-Thon.

Through their cooperation 20 phones were used five evenings to raise $25,000 to be scheduled to be distributed to our schools' parents clubs for use at their respective school sites. Finally, thank you to our district parents who have shown unusual generosity toward our students and their education.

Left on Morgan Fairchild

Dear Editor:

With Clint Eastwood elected mayor of Carmel, the old guard has reason to fear what Dirty Harry may do to disturb the status quo. For example, one rumor has it that Mayor Clint intends to change the names of the streets, naming them after famous movie stars.

Oh no! Not stately, secluded Carmel!

Can't you just imagine some stranger stopping a native Carmelite and inquiring: "Pardon me madam, but would you be good enough to direct me to the public library?"

There is bitter chagrin in her answer; "You go two blocks down Sylvester Stallone, and turn left on Morgan Fairchild."

Said more than words

Dear Editor:

The media seems to imply that Clint Eastwood's campaign for mayor of Carmel wasn't proper because of his celebrity status. I don't find it unreasonable to think that he cares about the village and feels that as mayor could make contributions to it. Certainly he was not a candidate as a lark, out of greed, for publicity, or because of personal or political ambition.

I must relate an incident of a sort not usually associated with Clint. I was associate producer-writer of a film, The Beguiled. Clint and Geraldine Page were the stars. It was filmed in Louisiana. Mae Mercer, a black actress, was a member of the cast.

I became aware after a few days that Mae was never in the restaurant where most of us often ate, and which provided entertainment and dancing. It wasn't difficult to realized why she kept to her room and out of sight when not working. But one evening I got her a join me for dinner.

As we were eating, a local redneck came to our table. He indicated that he was armed, and said, "We'll be waitin' to git you for bringin' her in here."

Clint was seated at a nearby table and recognized the threatening confrontation. He came over and quietly asked Mae for a dance. He danced with Mae around the floor bordered by tables with diners. That typical Eastwood expression was very much in evidence. It said more than words.

The election was over Tuesday — the purpose of this letter was not to influence, but to congratulate those who will have selected Clint as their mayor.

Carmel High is finalist for a statewide honor

CARMEL HIGH School is one of 145 California high schools throughout the state to reach the semi-finals of a Department of Education school recoginition program.

There are 800 high schools in the state, of which 75 will be chosen finalists and then 30 will be chosen as a distinguished school.

The schools are judged on California Assessment Program (CAP) and Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) scores, the advanced placement programs offered by the school, and the number of students enrolled in academic courses.

A Certificate of Merit and Achievement already has been presented to Carmel High School for its placement as a semi-finalist.

Sen. Wilson aide's harsh reaction to opponents

Stung by strong opposition to his Big Sur bill, senator tries to rally his forces

By MICHAEL GARDNER

A CANDID internal memorandum written by a key aide to Sen. Pete Wilson reveals interesting insights into his office's reaction to the tumultuous reception the senator received locally after introducing a bill to federalize Big Sur.

In his memo, aide Otto Bos called the Friends of the Big Sur "nasty," indicated that "we paid a price for not floating the legislation early" and said he "read the riot act" to an opponent of the bill.

The memo was obtained by the Carmel Pine Cone/Carmel Valley Outlook just days before Fifth District Supervisor Karin Strasser Kauffman is to confer with Big Sur residents about Wilson's measure.

The town hall meeting will be from 10 a.m. until noon Thursday, April 24 at the Big Sur Grange Hall.

Several of the key points in Wilson's bill are:

- Places Big Sur under the jurisdiction of the U.S. Secretary of Agriculture. A paid "Big Sur Coast Trust" would be established to raise funds for land acquisition.
- Another nine-member advisory board would be established to assist the secretary's office in making decisions governing the federal lands in Big Sur.
- Gives the secretary the authority to condemn public lands in the event that development-controlling policies in the LUP are "weakened" by a shift in local county politics.
- Provides for $500,000 in seed money to implement the program.

Wilson unveiled his bill March 6 in Washington, D.C., prompting immediate criticism from Big Sur residents and county officials angry that the senator did not consult with them first. Most residents and officials read about the surprise announcement in the newspapers.

Wilson and his staff then helicoptered into the Monterey Peninsula the following weekend, were greeted by angry pickets at Nepenthe and met with an even madder Friends of the Big Sur at the Monterey Airport that afternoon.

A staff analysis of the reaction and plans for the future lobbying are detailed in the March 10 memorandum by Bos sent to Wilson and several other key staffers.

"Now that we have survived the 'battle' of Big Sur, we had better have a strategy session over the telephone this week to have a plan on how to proceed," Bos wrote in his memo.

BOS HAS harsh words for the Friends of the Big Sur and its chairman, Jim Josoff.

"There is no doubt that 'friends' of the Big Sur...will do everything in their power to derail the effort that the senator has put in to put the federal government in line with the locally developed land use plan which they profess to support," Bos wrote.

"I thought it was the most interesting development was when PW (Pete Wilson) asked, after the one and one-half hour diatribe by the Josoff group, how many in the room (about 20) had read the bill. No one raised their hands."

In his memo, Bos neglected to point out that the senator's staff did not release copies of the bill and a synopsis until minutes before the meeting.

Bos detailed 10 "observations" that staff needed to consider in light of the March visit to Big Sur.

"We paid a price for not floating the legislation early, particularly among potential proponents, but then the opponents would have done everything in their power to torpedo it anyway.

"The Josoff group not only is very nasty, they also do not do their homework. Facts don't seem to bother them any. Josoff really leads them by the nose and, as I told him, he doesn't help them much in his failure to lead them properly," Bos wrote.

"Expect them to try and take the environmental ground — this 'federalization' will lead to Big Sur as Disneyland North — from us which, if you read the bill, is of course nonsense."

Bos tells staffers that their "best argument is the truth: This bill leaves Big Sur alone and the 'federalization' is the effort to blend in the major landowner — federal government — into the wishes of the local community as embodied in the local land use plan."

The role of Strasser Kauffman in the future of the bill is cited in the memo.

"The reception by the members of the board of supervisors was encouraging. They pointed out some possible improvements and concerns. But, on the whole, they liked what they saw," Bos wrote.

"She (Strasser Kauffman) was at both meetings and she needs watching. She may be the pipeline to (Congressman Leon) Panetta, who I think remains the key."

Bos admitted that even the proponents of the bill are concerned about the amount of power vested in the U.S. Secretary of Agriculture.

'THE PROPONENTS of park status seemed supportive, albeit a bit surprised at the sudden action," Bos reported.

"They had concerns about the department of agriculture getting too much power and I think PW felt sympathetic to that. Both sides seem to worry much about some omnipotent bureaucrat from Washington laying down the law somewhere down the road that would be unacceptable."

Despite the rhetoric during the local meetings, Bos said in his memo that there is hope that compromises can be worked out.

THE TRANQUILITY of this scene at El Sur Ranch is in direct opposite to the fiery debates now underway over possible federalization of the world-famous coastal region south of Carmel.

"Underneath the passion on the anti-side, I thought I detected a possible line of communication. They want some protection for Los Padres National Forest. They also want the money to implement the land use plan.

"The proponents also wanted more land for protection and acquisition, and more money. That would seem like the basis for talks on how to proceed," Bos wrote.

Bos lobbied for a quick turnout of information related to the bill.

"It would be most helpful if we get our communication on this issue out early. Obviously the opponents are trying to hurt this effort early to discredit it. And much misinformation is being shown about. It is important to get our story out early. I believe there is a great deal of sentiment for this issue among the public and news media. I would urge a letter from PW with the factual information to go out ASAP."

Bos also suggested that Jim Burroughs, a legislative assistant, go out on a public relations campaign in early April.

"Make sure, though, that it will be done professionally. No pickets, screaming, beating up of bureaucrats. Otherwise, forget it."

(Burroughs, based in Washinton, did exactly that, meeting with media and county officials in background sessions.)

In his memo, Bos also reported on a conversation he had with Josoff.

"I talked to Jim Josoff and read him the riot act this afternoon. He tried an ultimatum on me again today. I had enough. I told him if he wanted to fight, we could call his bluff, but that it would better for his constituency if we continued to talk. Maybe there is room to make peace. But they have sorely tested us."

And on Wilson's floor statement introducing the bill, Bos wrote, "We need to point out early the protective element. To guard against exploitation for tourism. To note that we are working with the local folks to do it right."

CONTACTED AT his San Diego office, Bos confirmed that he had written the letter.

The memo was not intended for the public and he was "astonished that it emerged," Bos said.

"We have grown a great deal since that time and Friends of the Big Sur have been much more responsive since then and have toned down the rhetoric," Bos added.

The measure that Bos is trying to push came under some criticism from the Monterey County Planning Director, Robert Slimmon.

"As with most legislation at this stage of development, this bill is rather disorganized in structure and content, raises more questions than it answers, and is difficult, if not impossible, to assess," Slimmon wrote in an April 15 memo to the board of supervisors.

Some of Slimmon's concerns are:

- "Boundaries are not defined except for quite general language nor are maps available. Also, area of federal intent is not defined. Therefore, implications of the bill cannot be determined.
- "The bill appears to give the secretary of agriculture the power to determine that the LUP is not, in fact, adequate — specifically, if project variances or exceptions to the LUP are granted (not permitted by law) or if the LUP is amended to be inconsistent with the (federal Coastal Zone Management Act).
- "Broad powers are given to the secretary of agriculture to make minor revisions to the area covered by the bill without any local input. Further, the secretary is to prepare the management plan with only a multi-agency Scenic Area Advisory Board to be established to advise him on its preparation and implementation. The U.S. Forest Service representative is to be the chairman. This is despite the statement of purpose to maximize coordination with state and local government and landowners.
- "Provision for a Big Sur Coast Trust to accept property in a manner identical to that of existing local land trusts. The difference is the secretary's direct control through exclusive authority over the expenditure of funds and the requirement that title to all acquired assets be conveyed to him."

Another memo to Wilson, this one signed by 15 local officials including Panetta, Josoff and Strasser Kauffman, urged the senator to back off from his bill.

"The key to preserving the Big Sur coastline is an understanding not only of its magnificent natural beauty, but the heritage, culture and special qualities of the people that make this area the truly unique region that it is," states the March 31 memo.

'THIS IS not a uniqueness that can be addressed by any existing federal land management concept," the memo continued.

"Past struggles over proposals ranging from a national park to a scenic area to the most recent suggestion of a national parkway have confirmed this fact."

The memo cites a "danger" of the legislation.

"The danger with the legislation you have introduced is that the good efforts of citizens, property owners, environmentalists and local leaders have not been adequately considered.

"It allows the secretary of agriculture to override all of the careful work and accomplishments of the local community.

"Areas of concern include powers relating to the condemnation of property, the limitation on ownership of property, the overriding of county and state regulations as well as the LCP, the adverse impact of unlimited recreational uses and possibly the expanded ability to mine and timber."

The memo states that federal help would be better off focusing on providing funds to acquire open space, to improve coordination between existing agencies, and to ban offshore oil drilling from the Big Sur coast.

The memo concludes, "To persist in legislation not supported by the community will result in needless confrontation between citizen and government and will obstruct the very goals we share."

Among those who signed the memo are: Ken Maddy, state senator; Sam Karas, chairman of the board of supervisors; Eric Seatrand, assemblyman; and representatives of Friends of the Big Sur, Coast Property Owners Association, Big Sur Chamber of Commerce and Big Sur Land Trust.

Other opposition to the legislation was recently announced, this time by the Monterey County Republican Central Committee.

The committee on April 15 adopted a resolution in opposition to the bill.

Earlier, the Coast Property Owners Association adopted a similar resolution denouncing the legislation.

Sen. Pete Wilson's response to key questions on his bill

(Following is a list of questions and answers concerning Sen. Pete Wilson's proposed bill to federalize Big Sur. The document was prepared by Wilson's staff.)

WHY CREATE A BIG SUR NATIONAL FOREST SCENIC AREA?

The Big Sur coast is the most spectacular meeting of land and sea in the United States. Its scenic vistas are treasured around the world and deserve the special recognition and protection afforded by Scenic Area status.

With this designation, the Los Padres National Forest Service lands within the Scenic Area will be forever protected from any kind of development — including prohibitions on logging, oil and gas development, and new mining ventures — that might otherwise diminish the spiritual-like quality of the Big Sur coast.

In the same manner that Monterey County's Big Sur Land Use Plan protects the "critical viewshed" of Big Sur by restricting development on the 55,000 acres of private lands, Scenic Area status will likewise protect the scenic quality of the 75,000 acres of federally owned lands in the Big Sur coast.

IS THIS "FEDERALIZATION" OF BIG SUR?

No, the legislation establishing a Scenic Area for Big Sur does not allow for the "federalization" of this area. In fact, there are specific provisions in the bill that restrict the Forest Service from taking over Big Sur. For example, the Forest Service cannot condemn (i.e., take) private property in Big Sur unless that property is being developed in a manner that is clearly inconsistent with the county's Land Use Plan.

Also, in those instances that private property is acquired by the Forest Service from a willing seller, the bill provides that such property will not be retained in federal ownership, but will be conveyed to the County of Monterey, the state, or some such appropriate non-profit land preservation entity, for will be partially incurred because of the parking garage.

But so far there has been no firm commitment from the new council to continue with the project, much less help with the costs. The council must approve the annex plans because the lots are owned by the city, not the library board.

LIBRARY TRUSTEES also briefly discussed whether the council would help pay for the architectural fees for the annex design.

The former council rejected the library annex in 1982 after trustees had paid approximately $57,000 for architectural fees.

Under a compromise, the council agreed to pay the architect's fee up to the point where the design is presented to the council in concept form. From there, the fees would be paid by the library board.

Concerned about the possible need to reduce the costs, Trustee Tom Duffy asked Foster to later provide a detailed analysis of the $624,500 estimated for "library building general construction."

Library Director Margaret Pelikan also provided an impromptu hint at an unofficial timeline when she said, "If everything went perfectly the building wouldn't open until late spring or early summer (1987)...If everything went perfectly the groundbreaking wouldn't be until November."

In other annex news, it was reported that staff felt there wasn't enough space in the proposed annex design for technical services.

Prompted by those sentiments, the architect pushed the annex north by 10 feet to add another 200 sq. ft. of interior space for the technical services.

The proposed annex would house the children's department on the first floor along with technical services and patron restrooms.

On the second floor there would be administrative offices above the children's department. There would be no second story above technical services, which would be at the north end of the proposed building.

Music booster club looking for parents

The Music Department at Carmel High School is very excited about the prospects of both a high school band and orchestra once again.

Students are now choosing their courses of study for the fall. There will be two periods set aside during the school day for music. Any students interested in learning an instrument or continuing with what they already have taken are encouraged to take music for their elective.

Future plans will include additional music courses, including a high school choir.

A Music Booster Club of parents is being formed to help in any way possible. The next meeting for the club will be Wednesday, May 14 at 7 p.m. in the music room at the high school. All interested parents are encouraged to attend.

For additional information conact Liz Snow at 624-5658.

AMBAG water workshop scheduled April 26

THE ASSOCIATION of Monterey Bay Area Governments (AMBAG) will hold a water issues workshop from 8:30 a.m. to noon Saturday, April 26 at the Monterey Conference Center.

The purpose of the workshop, cosponsored by the City of Monterey and League of Women Voters of the Monterey Peninsula, is to provide a forum for information exchange and public education on regional water resources.

Thank you, Auxiliary Volunteers

Community Hospital salutes the 465 active volunteers of the Auxiliary during Volunteer Week, April 20-26. Their unselfish donation of more than 100,000 hours of volunteer labor each year make possible:

- The Gift Shop for patients and visitors to the hospital.
- Transport of patients to various hospital departments.
- Telecare, which checks on elderly people and those who live alone.
- Free shuttle service from the parking lot to hospital.
- Pick up and delivery of medications for patients.
- Operation of a Snack Bar for visitors and the public.
- A Reception Desk where patients are admitted and discharged and visitors are greeted and escorted.
- Distribution of mail, flowers, books, magazines, crafts and a complimentary newspaper to all patients.
- 24-hour emergency alert system called Lifeline which puts elderly and disabled in touch with medical care.
- Assistance to the Dietary Department with patient menus.
- Scholarships to students in health care fields.

... plus a variety of other services.

Auxiliary volunteers provide the gift of caring that helps make Community Hospital a special place!

Proposal for 58-unit hotel just off Rio Road rejected

A PROPOSED 58-unit hotel at the mouth of Carmel Valley has been rejected by Monterey County Zoning Administrator Dale Ellis.

Attorney Anne McGowan, representing developers Mel Kline and John Mockett, said an appeal to the board of supervisors is being studied.

Ellis told the Carmel Pine Cone/Carmel Valley Outlook that he denied the application basically because of traffic considerations.

According to Ellis, the public works department recommended that no major traffic generating projects should be permitted until street improvements could be made.

In addition, Ellis said the draft Carmel Valley Master Plan discourages hotel development.

Residents south of the proposed hotel also presented a petition bearing more than 100 signatures asking that the project be denied because of the potential traffic impact, Ellis said.

Kline and Mockett, both of Carmel, propose to build the "Carmel Rancho Inn" hotel off Rio Road near the fire station.

The developers propose to provide 58 on-site and 20 off-site parking spaces for the hotel. The site is approximately 29,000 sq. ft.

The developer's traffic consultant, Keith Higgins, presented a report that indicated that the hotel would not generate substantially more traffic than an office building, the predominant use at the mouth of the Valley.

The city of Carmel also protested the proposed development.

Planning Director Diane White wrote a memo to Ellis asking that consideration be at least delayed until after adoption of the draft Carmel Valley Master Plan.

"Inadequate" is how White described Higgins' traffic report.

"Specifically, the effect of the proposal upon existing transportation systems and alteration to existing patterns of circulation are unknown.

"Until this information is provided we do not believe the initial study process can be completed and environmental effects adequately assessed," White argued.

Serra School offers a spaghetti feed

JUNIPERO SERRA School, the Catholic school at Carmel Mission, once again will offer a fund-raising spaghetti dinner.

The dinner will be served from noon until 5 p.m. Sunday, May 4 in Crespi Hall behind the Carmel Mission Basilica.

In addition to the complete spaghetti dinner, wine, beer and desserts also will be available. Music will be provided by Ed Greco and his band.

There will be door prizes and the school will conduct a drawing for a Hawaiian holiday for two arranged by Cardillo-Aslan Travel Agency through Classic Hawaiian.

Pitching ace Newcombe to speak at Carmel High

DON NEWCOMBE, the former Brooklyn and Los Angeles Dodgers pitching ace who one year went 27-7 to win the Cy Young and Most Valuable Player awards, will be a guest speaker at Carmel High School next month.

Newcombe will visit Carmel High School to speak on drug and alcohol abuse through a special program offered by New Beginnings Recovery Centers of America.

The talk will be at about 9:45 a.m. on Thursday, May 15.

Newcombe currently is the director of community relations for the Dodgers and is a citizen advisor to Nancy Reagan as part of the First Lady's programs on alcohol and drug abuse.

He also was recently named the director of special projects for Recovery Centers of America.

Since 1974 Newcombe has been a representative for the National Institute on Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism. He has traveled over three million miles and visited 48 states.

Newcombe helped break the baseball color barrier along with fellow Dodgers Jackie Robinson and Roy Campanella.

Newcombe opened his baseball career with a 17-8 record in 1949 and was named the National League's Rookie of the Year.

Newcombe's best season came in 1956 when he posted a 27-7 record and was presented with the Cy Young Award as the best pitcher in both leagues. (Later, baseball would give the Cy Young Award to the top pitchers in each league.)

That same year Newcombe was named the National League's MVP, becoming the first pitcher in history to win the Rookie of the Year, Cy Young and MVP honors.

Newcombe, who pitched in three world series and five All-Star games, closed out his career with a 149-83 record.

DON NEWCOMBE, former National League pitching ace and winner of the Cy Young and Most Valuable Player awards, will be a guest speaker on drug and alcohol abuse May 15 at Carmel High School.

BEHIND THE LINES
BY MICHAEL GARDNER

'Can you hear me now?'

ONE OF the most often asked questions during official-type meetings at city hall is "can you hear me now?" which obviously follows the "speak up!" comment from the rear.

Carmel does not have a reputation for young ears, so it's important that the planning commission, city council et. al. speak up when conducting public business.

But no matter how loud one talks, the range is only as good as the sound system. Just tell that to Mayor Clint Eastwood.

Clint had more than one run-in with the sound systems on the campaign trail. During one speech the mike squeaked and went dead, prompting the then-candidate to jokingly question "Is Mayor Townsend running the sound system?"

So soft-spoken monotone Clint decided to personally make sure that the sound system in the council chambers works as if it were designed for a concert by Paul Anka.

Surprise! One Sunday afternoon, our spies tell us, there was Anka himself in the council chambers fiddling with the knobs and buttons.

Sorry, I didn't hear whether he gave a rendition of You're Having My Baby. But later that week Anka had his sound technicians, A-1 Audio out of Las Vegas, Lake Tahoe, Reno, Atlantic City and Hollywood, working on the system.

A-1 Studio President Albert Siniscal was there, having flown into Carmel just for this project. Siniscal described his work as fine tuning to improve articulation. "Paul is one of the most savvy when it comes to sound," Siniscal said.

All of this was done at no charge to the city.

SPEAKING OF...

Speaking of Clint, city hall and tourists, plans now are underway to ensure residents' access to council meetings in case a tourist and media deluge continues.

The first council meeting is expected to be a real circus with the media all wanting to cover his opening session as mayor.

It appears that only local media will be allowed and most chairs will be reserved for residents and those with business before the council.

A fire marshall will be on hand to keep the crowd up to safety standards.

Hope at city hall is that at least the media will go away after the first session, but the real question is how many gawkers will show at subsequent meetings just to get a glimpse of Clint.

ANOTHER HUGE CROWD

Police officially estimated the crowd of onlookers during the swearing-in ceremonies April 15 as numbering 1,675.

LET THEM EAT CAKE

Hector DeSmet down at Carmel Purity Bakery decided that he wanted to congratulate the new council and show his appreciation for the service put in by outgoing members Charlotte Townsend, David Maradei and Robert Stephenson.

So Hector donned his baker's trademark white cap and whipped up a few large sheet pans of cake, distributing slices free to the community on April 15th.

The icing for the sheet pans featured a quaint Carmel tudor and the words "bringing the community together," which was Clint's campaign slogan.

Hector even listed the names of all candidates.

The media converged on Hector and his pretty daughter number four, Becky Estes, in the hopes that Clint would show. No Clint, but Councilwoman Elinor Laiolo and husband Barney enjoyed a healthy slice as did council candidate Robert Weber and former Mayor Charlotte Townsend.

Looking forward

The Carmel Youth Center Board of Directors is delighted to announce (drum roll please...) The First Annual CYC Car Raffle and Dinner Extravaganza!!!

You could be the lucky winner of a brand new 1986 Mazda SR-5 pick-up truck, or if you prefer, get credit toward a Honda or Mazda of your choice. In addition to this exceptional giveaway, a glorious champagne dinner will be served to you and your guest.

Only 100 tickets are going to be sold for this event! Additional prizes will include trips, vintage wines, dinners at some of our most elegant local restaurants, and yes...cash.

EVERYONE WILL WIN SOMETHING!

Chances are currently being sold by all CYC board members for only $200 and they will go fast. Think of the odds! Don't let this great opportunity to own a brand new car and help the youth center with your tax-deductible contribution pass you by. Saturday, June 28 marks the day for this exciting first annual fund-raising event, so call the center at 624-3285 or grab your favorite board member to support the center and kick in your chance for a car and a great evening of fun.

JOIN IN

With the fun Tuesday through Saturday at CYC. Your $5 membership fee (equivalent to one movie) will buy you access to the youth center and all we have to offer for the rest of this year! You can enjoy VCR showings on our big screen TV complete with crowd and popcorn. You can stuff yourself at our snack bar and even help with the cooking when we create something wonderful on Thursday and Saturday afternoons. You can play pool or ping-pong or try to outsmart our newest Atari video game. If you are adventurous, we generally load up the van for a night out at the movies on Friday night.

So you see what a mere $5 will buy you these days? We open every afternoon except Sunday and Monday at 2:30. (Saturday at 12.) Why don't you come down and check us out?

WANTED!!

Talent. Any kind, any age. We need your creative skills to lead in some programs. What do you do? Hike? Knit? Cook? Woodwork? One hour a week could make all the difference in program variety. Call 624-3285. Let's work together.

Carmel Valley Community Youth Center activities

Place your bets. Try your luck. This is your chance to gamble for great prizes.

A Monte Carlo Night, sponsored by the Carmel Valley Community Youth Center, will be held on Saturday, May 3 at Hidden Valley Music Seminars. The doors to a fun evening will be open from 8 p.m. until midnight. The entrance fee of $10 includes a raffle ticket, one free drink and unlimited access to a light buffet. Game tokens must be purchased separately and a no-host bar will be available.

Monte Carlo Night is fun for experienced gamblers as well as novices. The evening will be run by professional croupiers who supply regulation equipment. The professional dealers will take the time to explain how the various games are played, so everyone can join in the fun!

Your luck and skills can be tried at a wide variety of games. The casino at Hidden Valley will have slot machines, blackjack tables, a roulette wheel, craps tables and a poker table.

The reward for a lucky evening will be exciting prizes. You will have a chance of winning a trip to Reno or Las Vegas; a framed Hank Ketcham print; a haircut; breakfast, lunch or dinner at a local restaurant; a bouquet of flowers every month for a year and many other items from local businesses.

At the end of the evening the person with the most chips will have first choice of all the prizes donated by local businesses. Second choice will go to the person with the next largest chip value. Prizes will be chosen in this manner until all the wonderful items have been distributed. There will also be a small number of prizes available to those successful gamblers who choose not to stay until the end of the evening.

Monte Carlo Night is the single largest fund-raising event for the Carmel Valley Community Youth Center. Proceeds from the event provide the center with essential operating funds. The funds we raise make possible a variety of programs for the adults and youth of our community. They also provide funds for maintaining the improving the Community Youth Center facilities which include a park, a meeting hall, an activity house, and a swimming pool. These facilities have been used by Valley residents for more than 30 years.

We hope you will join us at 8 a.m. on May 3 at Hidden Valley for an exciting evening of lucky fun.

By LISA MECKEL
Kindergarten Teacher
Tularcitos School

I have been keeping a journal this year to record the happenings in my classroom. My purpose: to discover, through writing, what I really think about my teaching; to record events, plans, successes, failures, in order that I may compare this year with next year and discover ways to improve my teaching. I believe that teachers must leave histories of their work to help those who follow. Here is an excerpt from my journal; the event occurred in April of this year — one very happy day in April!

It's happening! The kindergarteners are spreading their colors across the page describing new ideas in unexpected forms. Nine children are painting at the flat yellow wall easel; their thoughts and brushes work in unity.

Like a time-lapse camera slowing the unfolding birth of a seedling, I'm seeing children's thought expand and emerge into painting. For just one still moment I hold their magic up to the light before invention moves them on.

They are weaving together with brush and color and intuition their accumulated experience. Look! A story is happening on the painted page: Green hills mound up; multicolored wildflowers expand in the tall grass; white clouds, cumulus-high, float across the blue and sun-drenched skies; a child swings in her backyard garden; robots reel around in a jig-time dance; an aircraft flies across the paper sky ready to bomb and destroy with nuclear weapons; strange phantom faces appear on the sun; geometric designs organize colors and move them around the paper; orange poppies burn out from a purple and pink sunset; trucks with gigantic tires rumble down hillsides; Halley's Comet streaks across the heavens; and always there is the shining full moon whitening the nighttime sky.

I'm remembering how it was when they came timidly to the paint easel in the beginning of the year. Standing there they would start by jabbing blobs of bright buttery yellow on the paper. Transfixed they would stare at the blood-red bubbles streaming and dribbling down the long white paper — all eyes absorbing the power of color. How they have transformed themselves! And all the rest of the day the joy of their growth sounds in the spring air of my classroom.

Now the day is ending. Books and toys are put away. I ask myself: Were these the same children who seemed so at risk at the beginning of the year? Is this why I'm teaching — for these moments that celebrate the coming together of meaning and learning? What have the children really discovered, devised, learned, absorbed, beyond the necessary requirements? Will they, at some future time, when their world goes grim, remember the colors of the blue-silver dawn? Will they seek shelter, however temporary, in the shining moon of their kindergarten days? Will there emerge an artist from the group? As I close the last open window, bring in the pumpkin seedlings, mix the colors for tomorrow, feed the meandering goldfish, I read again the message on my classroom wall:

"I knew from experience — and this was my second motive — that artistic emotion and creation are the sole refuge of human beings in a merciless world." (From Arno Stearn's "The Man Who Founded A New School of French Expressionism.")

Turning off the lights, I believe that I have hope for tomorrow.

NOT A SHOO-IN

Just because Townsend was serving on the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District Board of Directors, don't expect Eastwood to be a shoo-in as her replacement if he wants the job.

Townsend was appointed as the representative from the mayor's select committee. The committee is made up of mayors from local cities.

Expect Seaside Mayor Lance McClair to lobby for the coveted position since that city is trying to stimulate its economy by allowing more growth. Thus Seaside wants a voice on the water district to represent its views.

The mayors will meet Friday and no doubt Townsend's replacement is on their agenda.

HAVING SOME PUN FUN

Lorita Fisher, who took a lot of flak for the investigation into voter registration fraud in Carmel, was able to laugh about it a little last week.

Lorita, who is the president of the League of Women Voters of the Monterey Peninsula, was in Sacramento April 13 attending a league presidents' council meeting.

As a surprise, state league President Linda Broder presented Lorita with the following proclamation:

"Whereas the League of Women Voters is always willing to walk the Tightrope of nonpartisan politics to help voters cast informed votes; and

"Whereas the community of Carmel has been turned Every Which way but Loose with its celebrity candidate; and

"Whereas the League of Women Voters of the Monterey Peninsula has been a Magnum Force in the investigation of possible registration fraud in Carmel, not for A Fistful of Dollars, not even For a Few Dollars More, but for free; and

"Whereas, President Lorita Fisher has conducted all interviews, The Good, the Bad

Revisions in R-4 district subject of special meeting

By NANCY HILLS

THE R-4 district and Grunion Run will be the subject of a special planning commission meeting 4 p.m. Wednesday April 30 in the Carmel City Council chambers.

Revisions in density and permitted uses allowed in the largest section of land with potential for development, the R-4 zone, will be discussed in a public hearing during the special planning commission meeting.

The discussion will center around a section of the district that incorporates the upper and lower Handley Lumberyards and the Chevron service station. The upper lumberyard consists of the entire bloek between Junipero Avenue and Torres Street and Third and Fourth avenues. Within that block is the Chevron station on the corner of Junipero and Fourth avenues.

The area is planned for apartments, with a ban on condominiums and some commercial uses.

Changes under discussion will include a re-evaluation and increase of the 22-units-per-acre density previously proposed by a special committee to study the R-4 zone.

Alan Williams, representing R-4 property owners Tom Handley, Robert Murphy and Robert MacArthur, had presented the planning commission with a formula he said would reduce the mass of the building as the density increases.

By reducing the square foot per unit, designing the units to avoid continous flat surfaces and increasing open space, Williams claims that more units per acre can appear to be less.

Williams and attorney Don Hubbard, representing Tom Handley, both objected to the 22-units-per-acre zoning because it would allow only two units on a 4,000 sq. ft. lot. That would make development of rental units economically unfeasible, they both said.

The commission will also consider changing the policy of one set of zoning requirements for the entire R-4 to different requirements for sections within the district. The section zoning of the R-4 would be intended to reflect the varying conditions within and surrounding the R-4 district, the commission determined in meetings with Williams and Hubbard.

Also proposed will be an expansion of the list of commercial uses and "vested rights" for businesses already in the district. With "vested rights" a commercial use could be torn down and entirely rebuilt without losing its use permit.

Other zoning changes in the R-4 to be discussed are setbacks, building height standards and underground garage requirements.

• The planning commission will also hold a study session during the April 30 meeting on preliminary plans for the 16,000 sq. ft. Grunion Run restaurant property on Fourth Avenue between Mission and San Carlos streets.

The property was recently purchased by Carmel resident and attorney Robert D'Isidoro from the Doud Estate. D'Isidoro has submitted plans to the city for a partial two-story complex with 10,700 sq. ft. of offices on the ground floor and 9,100 sq. ft. of apartments on the second. During a land use committee meeting April 20, the committee requested that D'Isidoro keep the number of apartment units to nine.

IN STREAMLINING THE VOLVO 240 WAGON, ONE AREA REMAINED LARGELY UNCHANGED.

The new Volvo 240 Wagon has been streamlined from the front grille right back to the tailgate handle.

Yet, through Volvo engineering, what's in between has been kept the same: 76 cubic feet of loading space with the rear seat down. Which translates into an area that's more than six feet long and nearly three and a half feet wide. And for '86, the entire expanse is carpeted.

The Volvo 240 Wagon also goes to great lengths in another area: comfort. By offering heated front seats that back you up with more support than ever.

So why settle for an aerodynamic wagon that offers little in the way of cargo space, when you can buy the one that offers a lot: the '86 Volvo 240 Wagon at your dealer now.

VOLVO
A car you can believe in.

We're committed to one car, and one car only.

It's good news, bad news for Carmel school board

By MICHAEL GARDNER

A PLAN to shuffle administrators in the Carmel Unified School District — including a promotion for River School Principal Rosemary Montgomery — and some bad news on the 1986-87 budget will be presented to the board of education April 29.

The board will meet at 7 p.m. in the Carmel Middle School library, south side of Carmel Valley Road about one mile east of Highway 1.

Supt. Robert Infelise is to present trustees with his proposal to reshuffle several administrators and also present a preliminary budget that details why Gov. George Deukmejian may cost Carmel schools $500,000.

If accepted, Infelise's plan calls for Montgomery to be promoted to a central office position titled "Director of Curriculum and Instruction."

That position has been unfilled since Rich Hawkins took a one-year leave of absence and then later announced he would not return to the district.

Montgomery's River School principalship will be filled by Karl Pallastrini, who currently is the middle school vice principal.

As the newcomer to the district, Pallastrini was bumped by the domino effect: Joe Feldeisen resigned as principal of the high school to resume his duties as assistant principal.

Dee Dresser, currently the CHS assistant principal, now will return to being vice principal of the middle school, a position she held in 1984-85.

In addition, current school pyschologist Marvin Biasotti will be promoted to a position titled "Director of Pupil Services."

Unaffected are central office administrators Vance Baldwin, associate superintendent; and Chuck Phillips, director of educational services.

According to Infelise, the shuffle will not result in a large increase in administrative salary costs.

The salaries for the new central office staff under Infelise total about $174,000. The approximate salaries are: Baldwin, $48,000; Montgomery $42,000; Biasotti, $42,000 and Phillips, $42,000.

That is approximately the same cost as the salaries under former Supt. William Rand. His staff and approximate salaries were: Hawkins, $48,000; Business Manager Ed Miyasaki, $45,000; Biasotti, $36,000 and Phillips, $42,000.

The "glitch" to his plan, Infelise said, is how to provide improved pyschological services with Biasotti's time allocated to other tasks. Infelise believes that for $10,000 the district could provide an improved pyschological services program.

IN ADDITION to personnel reshuffling, Infelise is expected to unveil an $8 million preliminary budget.

The bad news in the 1986-87 budget so far is that Deukmejian intends to wipe out the "basic aid" for districts that raise more than $2,500 per student through local taxes.

The state guarantees districts at least $2,500 per student, Infelise said.

Carmel is one of those districts, raising $2,650 per student estimated in 1986-87.

What the governor intends to do is deduct that extra money from other state-funded programs, such as special education.

So Carmel projects a loss of up to $500,000 if the governor's plan is enacted.

Infelise went to Sacramento earlier this week to lobby local legislators in hopes that the basic aid monies are restored to the education budget.

The $8 million district budget is based on a 3.2 percent cost of living increase in general revenue limit funds provided by the state.

Unallocated in the budget is approximately $500,000 in lottery income, some of which is carryover from the 1985-86 payments.

General board policy so far is not to allocate anticipated lottery funds until the money is in hand.

The budget includes an automatic 2 percent across-the-board increase for all employees with additional raises to be negotiated. It will cost the district approximately $55,000 for each 1 percent across-the-board staff pay hike.

The budget also includes a $100,000 unallocated reserve.

Is Childhood Becoming Extinct?

PHOTOGRAPH BY GERALD FORBES

Childhood is a time when imagination lives most strongly. To ignore this reality is to leave the child without the capacity to respond to life creatively.

In Waldorf schools, (a world-wide movement founded sixty-six years ago), disciplined imagination lays the foundation for the awakening intellect, honoring the childs natural stages of development.

Ran gets film festival running

THE FIRST fundraiser to launch the inaugural Monterey Film Festival did so in spectacular style, with a packed-house of enthusiastic filmgoers at the Dream Theater to nibble on sushi and teriyaki, be entertained by traditional Japanese dances and finally to be treated to the awesome spectacle of Akira Kurosawa's modern masterpiece Ran

The event, held at the Japanese decoration-bedecked theater (which was donated for the evening by owners Alan Weber and John Harris), raised $3,500 for the first Monterey Film Festival, which is to be held Feb. 5-8, 1987. The event also provided the opportunity to reveal designer Jerry Takigawa's logo for the festival.

The Dream, which is usually decorated with old and new movie posters and fliers, was awash with colorful koi-nobori, or fish kites, Japanese flags and posters and rainbow-hued paper lanterns. A large central table was filled with four kinds of sushi, chicken teriyaki, salmon, barbecued pork, spinach-tofu salad and asparagus salad, all prepared by the Japanese American Citizens League, which should be given a deep bow and sustained applause for their contributions to the evening's festivities, which also included floral arrangements, ladies in kimonos, and traditional dances.

Film festival board members were introduced by the irrepressible Morgan Stock, president of the festival board, as well as the evening's guest of honor, Academy Award-winning actress Joan Fontaine.

The evening was capped off by the peninsula premiere of Kurosawa's Academy Award-nominated film Ran, the Japanese director's "samuraization" of King Lear, with a Lady MacBeth figure thrown in for good measure. The film lives up to all of its advance billing, it's a powerfully-acted, stunningly photographed and edited and mesmerizing film, a feast for the senses. Run, don't walk to see Ran, which opened an engagement at the Dream. Be forewarned, it's long, often bloody and sometimes confusing, but well worth the time spent.

All in all a fitting beginning for what's hoped to be a long run for the Monterey Film Festival, a good idea a long time in coming.

ON HAND for the first fund-raising event for the inaugural Monterey Film Festival at the Dream Theater in which the festival's logo was also unveiled, were, from left, Fourth District Supervisor Sam Karas; Joe Cavanaugh, director Monterey County Office of Economic Development; film star Joan Fontaine; and Morgan Stock, festival president. ### SPEAKING OF RUNNING...

More than 300 entrants competed at Saturday's colorful Special Olympics area games at Monterey Peninsula College. Athletes competed in a variety of events, including track and field-type events such as 100-meter dash and softball toss, swimming, gymnastics, basketball, even Frisbee throwing.

Also on hand were scores of family, friends and supporters, as well as dignitaries and sports personalities to hand out the awards, including Carmel Mayor Clint Eastwood, Fort Ord commandant, Maj. Gen. William Harrison, and Dave Dalby of the NFL's Los Angeles Raiders.

More than 200 volunteers helped organize and make the 11th annual event a huge success, with entertainment provided by local musicians, singers and dancers.

SLIDES OF MEXICAN EARTHQUAKE TO BE SHOWN

The Carmel Chapter of the American Red Cross has invited Mike Ventimiglia of the Monterey Fire Department to speak on disaster preparedness and show slides of the damage and recovery efforts following the recent earthquake that hit Mexico City, 6-7:30 p.m., Thursday, April 24 at the Red Cross chapter house, Eighth and Dolores. An informal session on personal disaster preparedness and Red Cross disaster relief program will follow. There is no fee for the program. For more information call 624-6921.

CARMEL LEGION TO HOST BARBECUE

The Carmel American Legion Post No. 512 will host a barbecue from 12 noon to 5 p.m., Saturday, April 26 at the Carmel Legion Hall, Dolores near Eighth Street. Members and guests are invited. For more information call Paul Artellan at 624-6625.

FROM INSPIRATION TO INSTALLATION

"The Inside Story of the Monterey Bay Aquarium" is what it's being subtitled and 6:30 p.m. Saturday, April 26 at the Monterey Bay Aquarium is when and where it's being held. What it is is another in an informative lecture series offered by PiCa, People in Communication Arts, a non-profit educational organization dedicated to the graphic arts.

Always popular events, the latest will feature four members of the aquarium's topnotch graphics staff: Jim Peterson, exhibits designer; Judy Rand, editor-writer; Jody Armstrong, exhibit graphics supervisor; and Anne Teters, senior graphic designer.

The foursome will present inside information on what's involved in creating, maintaining and expanding the exhibits, institutional image and print materials at the state-of-the-art aquarium.

Admission is limited and by advance reservation only. Admission is $30 general, $25 student and $20 members. There may still be time to join in on the activities. Call 375-7225 for more information.

DESERET MONTESSORI SCHOOL RUMMAGE SALE

Deseret Montessori School Parents Guild will hold a rummage sale from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m., Saturday, April 26 at the school, Fourth and Sloat in Monterey.

In addition to household items, sports equipment, toys, and adult clothing, there will be special emphasis placed on children's clothing. Proceeds from the fundraiser will go towards school equipment, improvements, and financial aid.

For more information call Terri Juergens at 625-6881 or 659-5411.

LOCAL SCHOLAR-ATHLETES MAKE HALL OF FAME

The Monterey County Chapter of the National Football Foundation and Hall of Fame hosted a luncheon at the Presidio of Monterey Officer's Club in preparation for the annual awards banquet to be held at Rancho Canada at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday, April 30.

John Ralston, former college and pro football coach, will be the guest speaker for the event.

Each honoree will be entitled to a scholarship grant provided to the college of his choice and will receive a framed certificate. In addition each of the scholar-athletes' schools will receive a plaque in the name of the honoree to serve as an incentive for others.

Area athletes to be honored include Steven Radowicz of Carmel High and Michael Kirch of Robert Louis Stevenson.

UNIVERSITY WOMEN POTLUCK SUPPER

The Monterey Peninsula Branch of the American Association of University Women will be having a combination general meeting and pot-luck supper Tuesday, April 29, beginning at 5:30 p.m.

AAUW and members of the public interested in knowing more about AAUW are invited to meet at The Crossroads community room. Briefly, AAUW promotes equity for women, education and self-development over the lifespan, and positive societal change.

Active CCD director from Atascadero, Betty Putnam, will be the guest speaker. Call 372-5410, evenings only, to find out what food category your last name falls into for the dish to bring to the potluck supper and/or to inquire about AAUW membership.

CYPRESSAIRES TAKE MOST IMPROVED TROPHY

The host Monterey Peninsula Cypressaires won the Most Improved Chorus trophy at the NorCal West barbershop chorus and quartet contests April 12 in Sherwood Hall, Salinas. First place in the chorus contest was taken by the Peninsulaires of Palo Alto.

The quartet contest was won by "Great Western Timbre Company," whose members come from the Fresno, Stockton and Walnut Creek chapters. Second was "Stop! Look! and Listen!" from Santa Rosa.

Many compliments were given local barbershoppers, and particularly Contest Chairman Don Sprouse, for a fine job of hosting a contest — a task undertaken for the first time in the Cypressaires' 30-year history. They give credit for invaluable assistance to their ladies and to the members of the San Francisco chapter, which declined to compete.

The Cypressaires had good pre-contest publicity in all media. The contest itself drew one known newspaper reporter and one TV crew.

The 11 judges and two timekeepers of the sophisticated barbership contest and judging system panel came from all over California and from Arizona and Hawaii. Seven choruses and 16 quartets competed.

The Cypressaires meet every Tuesday night from 8 to 10:30 at the American Legion Hall in Marina, 694 Legion Way. Prospective members and guests are always invited to attend. Membership is restricted to males, but interested female singers may call Bob Arthur of Marina, 384-3678, for information about the Sweet Adelines, a women's counterpart of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America.

BY NANCY HILLS

Europe in Carmel

SUMMER'S COMING and merchants I talk to are expecting a good crowd. Not because of our new mayor, actually (though that won't hurt), but because so many people aren't travelling to Europe.

Where do you go when you don't go to Europe? Why, doesn't Carmel-by-the-Sea have a certain European charm and flavor to it? Where else can you visit, at least visually, five different countries just by walking down the block?

With so many architectural styles in this town, one minute you're in an England only Americans could dream up, the next you're in a Mediterranean villa disguised as a Mexican border town. Carmel's very pretty, but it's also subject to the "California condition." Loosely translated that means if it has lived and breathed on this planet, it's been to Carmel at least once and left its mark.

So smile this summer when the onslaught comes, brush up on your French accent and practice looking "above it all."

SADE'S SELLING

It's had more than one owner, you can be sure. And now good old Sade's on Ocean Avenue between Monte Verde and Lincoln streets is in the midst of another sale. This one is being orchestrated in a cooperative effort between Earl Meyers of Herma Curtis Realty and Marvin Wildman through Carmel Business Sales. The sale should close in the latter part of May, say the principals involved.

The new owners (if all goes well) are Peter and Mary Savale from Houston. Contrary to public opinion all people from Texas are not into oil, and the falling prices on crude did not drive these folks into arms of the Carmel bar scene.

Peter Savale, actually, has been involved in keeping people secure, not into keeping them cruising the streets. Savale worked for Communication Control, Inc., which is involved, Savale explained, in "crisis management." In other words, high-tech security and preventative protection, including that for international executives. So keep your hand out of the till.

Mary said she has been a medical transcriptionist for the past 10 years, but has worked as a cocktail waitress and bartender in the past, so the goings-on in a bar won't be a big surprise to her.

Operation of Sade's will be a shared responsibility, they both said.

One of their main objectives, Mary said, will be restoring "some of its original charm."

"Our principal interest is to return it to being a local 'watering hole,' " Peter Savale said.

"There's something very, very nice about carrying on a tradition," he added.

They won't be selling any food, but will offer popcorn and munchies everyday. There might even be hors d'oeuvres, if the city permits such an extravagance.

Savale wants the same thing for his customers that he wants when he sits down to relax.

"I'm like that," he said. "I like to have a cocktail and munchies with it."

A little paint and carpet will add to the change.

"We're planning on painting the inside peach with bottle green carpet. We're putting in director's chairs with white canvas for summer and black for winter," Savale said.

Won't he miss the exciting times in the security business. Absolutely not, he said.

"I think doing business in that hostile environment makes the move to Carmel all the more attractive," Savale said. They plan to live in the village, he added.

RUGS AND HEAVY METAL

I'm not talking Twisted Sister (that's a "heavy metal" band — for those who don't love their MTV), but a new store on Carmel Rancho Lane called Accent on Design.

Accent on Design isn't into heavy metal rock either. What it is, according to manager Kendall Ephron, is "a showroom of fine, exclusive and unique home accessories and gift ideas."

So why the reference to heavy metal? Other than my own sheer desperation for something different in a headline, the shop is a showroom for the work of metalsmith Chris Axelsson.

Not a sculptor, Ephron said, Axelsson can create works for the home from metal that range from contemporary to traditional; he can also replicate any antique. Last year Axelsson won the Heitler Award for excellence by the National Association of Metalsmiths, Ephron said.

There's also more than Axelsson's work at the shop. The showroom, Ephron explained, is also a place for importer Constance (that's it, no last name) to display her "one of a kind" imports. Ephron described handwoven carpets from Greece, silk paintings from Canada, hand-painted silk pillows, watercolors and acrylics from Canada, "exclusive Swiss fabric," and pastel color woven baskets and more.

Also featured are bronze sculptures Christopher Bell.

The store shares space with specialized interior design shop Kitchen and Bath, owned by Sharon Russell.

friends indeed — a relatively large group of them actually. Well, four, but hereabouts that is a large group of people to own and run one clothing store.

Barbara Ehrenpreis and her husband, David, along with Douglas Evans and Stephanie Sugars, have purchased R. J. Daniels on San Carlos Street near Seventh Avenue.

Daniel Rosensweig, owner of R. J. Daniels, has already moved his merchandise out and Pizazz will be moving in this week. Ehrenpreis said they hope to open April 25.

The shop will offer "better wearable contemporary clothes," she explained, aimed, from her description, to us baby boomers and a little older. The 25 to 50 or 60-year-olds was the age bracket Ehrenpreis used. Young enough to enjoy a little edge to our clothes, but mature enough to know things have to last more than a day. No suits, but comfortable casual clothing.

The shop will be 70 percent women's and 30 percent men's, Ehrenpreis explained, and will carry labels like Kenar, Kazmel, and a new line, Segrets, for women. For men, she said they will have Tony Lambert and Tijucas sweaters and Axis clothing.

"We're heavy into sweaters," she said.

They will be carrying entire lines of some of the labels, not just single outfits, she added.

Ephrenpreis and Doug Evans with Caryl Diamond and Reed Maidenhert, are co-owners of Harmony and Lotus stores that are located from Santa Rosa to San Jose. They started the first store with a group of friends in 1978, she said.

Harmony and Lotus, Ephrenpreis added, is more of a younger, boutique-style store than Pizazz will be.

LADYFINGERS LADY—LIKE MOVE

There'll still be coins at the Carmel Stamp and Coin location, but now they're all going to be in the cash register.

The collectors shop will soon close and when its doors reopen, it will be a jewelry store. The eight-year-old Ladyfingers now located on Dolores Street near Fifth Avenue is moving out of that location and into the new one.

Ladyfingers owners Steven and Elaine Kauffman hope to open by June 1.

The move into a larger space will allow the Kauffmans to expand a little while remaining essentially the same.

"We'll still carry over our own unique design jewelry — my husband's a jeweler and designs his own — plus we will promote other artists," Elaine Kauffman said.

The shop mainly carries rings and earrings, she said, and they will do custom design work. The new location will have some fashion jewelry, she added.

The Dolores Street space will still belong to the Kauffmans, but is going to be transformed into a jewelry and watch repair shop.

Kenneth Matthews, long-time peninsula resident and former owner of his own jewelry repair store in Carmel, will be a part-time participant in Jewelry Atelier. (Atelier, Elaine Kauffman tells me, is French for workshop or studio.)

• But what of the 45-year-old Carmel Stamp and Coin shop? Is it going out of business? Absolutely not, said owner Megan Terry (who, by the way, is not 45.) Terry said she wants to stay in Carmel and is looking for a place. If she gets what she wants, she said she will be relocated by May 1.

Terry explained she is moving because "the complexion of my business has changed and an office is more appropriate — but I still intend to keep up with our regular customers."

The business of stamp and coin collecting has become now more of a "brokerage situation," she said, and not necessarily just a little hobby. "We're attending to a lot of (stamp and coin) shows," she added. It's hard to leave a shop for the time it takes to attend those, she added. The profession also does a large mail order business, she said, which only requires an office.

The shop not only sells coins and stamps but has added on a relative newcomer in the collectors circle — postcards and old letters. A postcard collector herself, Terry said it's still new enough to be inexpensive and a collector can sometimes get a rare card for $50 to $200.

Philatelists and numismatics (stamp collectors and coin collectors respectively) have been patronizing Carmel Stamp and Coin at the same location for more than 40 years, according to Terry.

She should know. She said her parents, Marilyn and Glenn Terry, purchased the shop in 1960 from its original owner, L. S. Stallings. Terry herself started in the business sweeping the sidewalks, so I guess you could say she started from the ground up. It's an interesting profession, she said, and stamp collectors are pretty interesting people. They usually are well-traveled and history buffs to boot.

So much for the media image of a stamp collector

GET STOKED ON THE BEACH

It's definitely different than an old-fashioned ice cream parlor.

Remember the former Back Pocket location on the corner of Mission Street and Ocean Avenue (behind and below what is now J.J.'s Shoes?) That's where Michael Montana and Jim Newhouse proposed their ice cream parlor, Carmel Creamery, and were turned down by the city primarily because of increased water use.

Well, we have come full circle because opening in that same space is a shop that requires more water than the whole city uses. More than the whole peninsula does, for that matter.

It requires an entire ocean. With waves. With people on the waves. With people on the waves and shore that like to dress like people who ride on the waves.

What we have here is a new surf shop called On the Beach, complete with clothing, surfboards, accessories, wetsuits, ding repair and advice.

For those who prefer riding their boards on dry land, there are skateboards and skateboarding equipment. There's even a special "skateboard pool" (fake swimming pool) for skateboarders.

The shop is owned by two surfers, Kelly Sorensen and Michael Locatelli and is scheduled to open Friday, April 25.

Sorensen claims it will be like no other surf shop in California.

"We're going at the surf shop from a different angle," he said. "We have had a designer do the whole place."

The shop will offer "basically high fashion surf apparel for sport and beach fashion" he added.

The clothing consists of Maui & Sons, Jimmy'Z, Quicksilver, Billabong, Gotcha, Stiissy and Mango. That's for the men and boys. For women and girls, there is Jimmy'Z (that boy gets around,) Germaine of Paris, Rio Bathing Suits and California Pro-Team.

What's surfing without a board? The shop will offer surfboards by Mark Goin, Matt Moore's Rincon Design, Stiissy and custom designs for those who know just what they want.

Can't surf in Northern California without a wetsuit (it's cold out there), so the shop offers Hotline, Peak and Victory for both men and women.

If you're tired of looking enviously on while others hang ten, Sorensen said they will be offering surfing lessons in the summer. If you're simply an admirer of the sport, the all-day-long surfing videos the shop will be showing might satisfy your needs.

GOLDSMITH GOING

Goldsmith's Jewelers is closing its 11-year-old store in Camrel Plaza at the end of this month, according to owner Al Adolph. No complaints with the Plaza, he said, but things are going so well in other locations that he wanted to concentrate on his five other stores.

"The overall size of the place in the Plaza (250 sq. ft.) was very small and not commensurate with our type of operation," Adolph explained.

A small jewelry store requires a staff with the same degree of experience as a larger store, he said. Same labor costs but not the same sales.

RE-AWAKENING THE INTELLECT

The Waldorf School Foundation of the Monterey Peninsula invites parents, children, and friends to attend "Re-Awakening the Intellect," a spring festival focusing on the magical experience of a Waldorf kindergarten.

Featured will be Ellen Morrison, a kindergarten teacher from the Summerfield Waldorf School in Santa Rosa, who will tell the fairy tale "Briar Rose" (a.k.a. "Sleeping Beauty") through the medium of puppetry. Children may participate in various crafts activities while parents learn how the imagination and creative play engaged in a Waldorf kindergarten set the stage for the developing intellect.

On display will be classwork from grades K through 8 in a Waldorf school. Lunch will be available at a minimal charge. Donations are appreciated. The event will be held Saturday, April 26 starting at 10 a.m. at the Community Church of the Monterey Peninsula, one mile east of Highway 1 on Carmel Valley Road.

management in a manner that is consistent with the county's Land Use Plan.

WHY A BIG SUR BILL NOW?

This bill is tied in closely with the county's Land Use Plan that has recently been adopted after 10 years in the making. Now that the county and the state have done their job to protect the privately held lands in Big Sur, it is time for Congress to do the same for the federal lands.

WHAT DOES SCENIC AREA STATUS MEAN FOR PRIVATE PROPERTY

Under current law, the Forest Service has no jurisdiction over private property in Big Sur. Under the Scenic Area legislation, the Forest Service is given limited jurisdiction, but only as it relates to land acquisition. Specifically, the bill allows for federal acquisition of private lands with the consent of the landowner.

The Forest Service will not be allowed to condemn private property unless the county's Land Use Plan is significantly weakened by some future action of the county or the courts. With this exception, the Forest Service will not have any jurisdiction over private lands, the county's Land Use Plan, or any other private property matter.

WILL THE COUNTY'S LAND USE PLAN BE SUPERSEDED BY THIS LEGISLATION?

No, the county's Land Use Plan will continue to be the governing instrument for private lands in the Big Sur area, and the Scenic Area legislation will be the governing instrument for the federal lands. As stated previously, the Forest Service will have no control over the county's Land Use Plan. Conversely, the county has no authority to limit development of federal lands, which is why Scenic Area protections are needed for the Forest Service property.

WHERE DO WE GO FROM HERE?

The next step for the Big Sur legislation (S. 2159) will be Congressional committee hearings. This will be the opportunity for those who have views on this legislation to express themselves to Congress. After hearings, the Senate Energy and Natural Resources Committee will meet to make changes to the bill on the basis of what they have heard at the committee hearings. After making these changes, the bill will be considered by the full Senate and then sent to the House of Representatives for their consideration.

The Golden Years

By Myles Williams

According to figures compiled by the UCLA/USC Long Term Care Gerontology Center, more men aged 65 and older walk for exercise than any other age/sex group. Before beginning a walking program, the center advises that you consult your physician. Always start out with warmup exercise, then walk as briskly as your condition permits. The President's Council on Physical Fitness and Sports recommends that seniors begin by walking about 20 minutes per day, four or five time a week. You can gradually increase the time you spend walking as your body gets used to exercise.

By the year 2050 there are expected to be as many as 16 million Americans over the age of 85. That would be one in every 20 people.

Remember When? December 30, 1903—A disastrous fire occurred in Chicago's Iroquois Theater during a performance by Eddie Foy. Some 588 people died and new codes for fireproofing theaters were enacted in cities all over America.

News notes:

Drinking, driving don't mix says high school senior

WITH GRADUATION parties nearing, it is especially important to raise the issue of drinking and driving.

So believes Carmel High School senior Gil Champion, who is on a one-person crusade to try and keep his classmates from drinking and driving.

Two months back Champion started a drive to have parents and their teenagers sign a contract designed to decrease drunken driving accidents.

The contract basically states that the student will call for a ride home if he is drunk and the parents agree to provide transportation with no hassles. Students also agree not to ride with a drunken driver.

Champion had disappointing results in his first try, receiving only 45 contracts after a mailing that went to 811 households.

Champion said that the poor response could be partially blamed on parents who dislike the contract because in their opinion it encourages drinking.

But he believes that attitude is "unrealistic."

Champion indicated that many students are going to drink no matter the opinion of their parents, so it is imperative that arrangements are made to keep the teenagers from behind the wheel or riding with a drunken driver.

Undeterred, Champion is trying again because of the pending graduation parties.

For a contract or more information, contact Champion at the high school, 624-1821.

Cheerleading tryouts scheduled for May 3

Monterey Peninsula Youth Football will be conducting cheerleading tryouts for the upcoming football season Saturday, May 3 at Pacific Grove Middle School Field (Fountain and Sinex in Pacific Grove) at 9 a.m. Training sessions to teach all who show up the cheers and skills to be judged at tryouts will be held April 25, 28, 30 and May 2 in the Pacific Grove Middle School Gym from 4:45 p.m. to 6:45 p.m.

Monterey Peninsula Youth Football is a non-profit, community-supported youth organization, sponsoring two teams: the Redskins (ages 9-11) and the 49ers (ages 11-13). The players for these teams are drawn from Carmel, Carmel Valley, Monterey, Pacific Grove and Pebble Beach. The teams play in a league, Monterey Bay Youth Football, against North Salinas, South Salinas, Seaside, Ft. Ord, North County, Hollister and Watsonville.

Although football (and cheerleading) practice does not begin until August 1, the cheerleaders are normally selected before the end of the school year to allow time for uniform selection, camp reservations and the like.

For information call Michael Hagerty at 757-8877 or 625-6110 evenings.

College planning workshop scheduled

A College Planning Workshop for families of college-bound high school freshmen, sophomores and juniors will focus attention on college options and the importance of advance planning to help insure that these students are matched with the right colleges.

Topics to be covered include: setting educational goals, the application/admission process, public vs. private colleges, preparing for the SAT and other tests, the interview and the essay, check lists and deadlines, costs and financial planning, campus visits, physical and learning disabilities, and the student athlete.

Speakers include Bill Rand, financial planner with Clocktower Financial Group, Phyllis Stebbins of The Reading Game, and Oliver White of School Search.

This free workshop, sponsored by School Search, a Carmel educational consulting firm, will be held Monday night, April 28 at 7:05 in the Community Room, Crossroads Shopping Center, Rio Road at Highway 1, Carmel.

Call School Search, 624-2836, for further information and to make reservations, which are recommended.

Highway 1 to close for Big Sur Marathon

Highway 1 between Carmel and Big Sur State Park will be temporarily closed Sunday, April 27.

The parade of cars that normally travels the scenic coastal route will be replaced by an entourage of nearly 2,000 marathon runners who are entered in the first-ever Big Sur International Marathon.

The race begins at Pfeiffer-Big Sur State Park and travels 26.2 miles northward to Rio Road just south of downtown Carmel. The road closure will take place at 6 a.m. in South Carmel and at 7 a.m. in Big Sur. CalTrans officials anticipate the road being cleared and fully open by 2 p.m. that day.

A landslide, approximately 30 miles south of Big Sur, has the passage to San Simeon and Morro Bay blocked until early June; however, the Big Sur area has not been affected and its businesses, lodging accommodations and campsites are open to travelers from the north.

Applicants sought for social services agency

Applicants are being sought for a vacancy on Monterey County's Social Services Commission by Fifth District Supervisor Karin Strasser Kauffman.

The commission advises the Monterey County Board of Supervisors on the administration of the Social Services Department, on programs of federal, state and county welfare and on the needs of the citizens. Further, the commission serves as the state-mandated advisory group required for such areas as child protection and food stamps.

The Social Services Commission meets on the third Tuesday evening of each month, usually in Salinas but occasionally in other offices throughout the County of Monterey.

Persons who are interested and who reside in the Fifth District should contact Strasser Kauffman's office at 1200 Aguajito Rd., Monterey, or call 649-6515. The Fifth Supervisorial District includes the Aguajito, Skyline Forest, parts of Monterey and Pebble Beach, Carmel, Carmel Valley, Big Sur, and the Toro areas of the county.

Slide removal progressing on Hwy. 1

Work to remove the slide that covers Highway 1 in southern Monterey County at Redwood Gulch resumed April 12, after being halted two days earlier because of additional material falling, according to CalTrans spokesperson Eddie Devens.

The contractor's men and equipment were working near the top when a "spotter" noticed a crack beginning above the work area. The equipment operators were able to get themselves and the equipment away from the danger area and into a safe spot before a large amount of material fell.

Motorists, bicyclists, hikers, etc., are asked to observe the "road closed" signs, since there is a real danger of being hit by falling rocks and debris.

The highway is closed in the south at Ragged Point, just south of the San Luis Obispo-Monterey County Line, 15 miles north of San Simeon (Hearst Castle). In the north Highway 1 is closed at Gorda which is 36 miles south of Big Sur. Local businesses remain open, however.

CalTrans officials said they hoped that the short delay caused by this additional slide material coming down will not lengthen the total time estimated to complete the removal. The target date for completion of the work and reopening of Highway 1 is still mid-June.

SAFE AT home are 20 Carmel Middle School students who were called back early from an exchange program in Barcelona, Spain after the U.S. bombed Libya. A bomb threat to the American School in Barcelona where the students were studying forced their early return. Above are students Tiffani Meheen and Willie Moore with counselor and chaperone Donna Alonzo. (Michael Gardner photo.)

CMS students share experiences of 'scary' field trip to Spain

AS THEY walked through the hall of Madrid International Airport, not one youngster spoke. They had been advised for their own safety not to speak English.

It was just one of the frightening occurences for 20 Carmel Middle School students who were rushed back home from Barcelona, Spain after American warplanes acting on President Reagan's orders bombed Libya April 14.

The students were on a two-week exchange program attending the American School in Barcelona and staying with private families.

The trip was cut short by five days after the school became the target of a bomb threat. The day after Carmel students left another bomb threat forced authorities to close the school.

"I couldn't believe it," was how student Tiffani Meheen described the news of the bombing.

Counselor Donna Alonzo was one of the adult chaperones on the exchange program.

"I got a call from my husband and then Mr. Infelise called. I pulled all of the kids together and we had a long talk about what happened and what it meant," Alonzo explained.

Back in the states, parents were to meet Monday night to determine whether the students should be called home. They decided the students could stay.

However, the bomb threat the next day changed their minds.

"I understand the reasons we came home. My fear was going through four airports (Madrid, Barcelona, New York and San Francisco). I'm glad to have my kids home safe," Alonzo said.

Going through the airports was a scary experience. Not only were the students frisked, but they were advised not to speak.

"Mrs. Alonzo didn't want us to talk or anything because they didn't want them to know we were American." said student Willie Moore.

"The consulate advised us not to allow any of the children to speak any English in the airports," Alonzo said.

Most of the students were upset that they were forced to come home early just as they were getting used to the school and had gotten over the homesickness.

"I was mad. I just got started knowing the family and having fun. At first I was homesick," said Willie.

Despite the sour ending, the students still had some interesting experiences during their shortened stay. The students toured museums and visited the Santa Maria, Christopher Columbus' flagship.

The highlight of the trip was a visit to the island of Majorca and and its capital city Petra, Carmel's sister city. There they were greeted by Petra's mayor and the vice-president of the international organization working for the canonization of Father Junipero Serra, who is buried at Carmel Mission.

Hwy 68 task force to discuss PB gate recommendations

A RECOMMENDATION to delete a proposed fifth gate into Pebble Beach has been placed on the action agenda for the Holman Highway Task Force's Monday, April 28 board meeting.

The recommendation to go without a gate at the Haul Road site on Highway 68 near Pacific Grove was given the highest priority by the 150 participants in a task force-sponsored workshop held March 27.

If approved by the board, a recommendation that the gate be removed as a condition of the Pebble Beach Co.'s permit for its Spanish Bay resort project will be forwarded to the Monterey County Board of Supervisors. The $396,000 currently allocated for the proposed gate could be allocated for other highway improvements.

The meeting, which is open to the public, will be held at 3 p.m. at Pacific Grove City Council chambers at city hall on Forest Avenue.

Any changes in the Spanish Bay permit must be approved by both the Pebble Beach Co. and board of supervisors. The cities of Pacific Grove and Monterey, both members of the task force, were also asked to discuss the recommendations and present their policies to the task force at the meeting.

The city of Carmel is not yet a member of the task force, although new Mayor Clint Eastwood has indicated a willingness to join and attended and participated in the March 27 workshop.

At the workshop, participants were presented a variety of options on how to deal with traffic and safety problems on Highway 68 (Holman Highway) from Highway 1 to Asilomar in Pacific Grove. Options included signalized crossings, widening of highway, passing lanes, and separated-grade ("cloverleaf") interchange.

A consensus was reached by all six of the workshop groups, with the deletion of the gate at Haul Road (a condition imposed by the Spanish Bay use permit) getting the most votes.

"There was a general feeling that Spanish Bay traffic should be confined as much as possible to Pebble Beach boundaries," said Susan Whitman, task force chairman and Pacific Grove city councilwoman.

The need to impove the gate at Carmel Hill at the intersection of Highway 1 and Highway 68, was also highly recommended.

Organizers were encouraged by the large turnout and participation by a wide cross section of the peninsula community impacted by Highway 68.

"It looks like we've had a very good start," Whitman said.

For more information on the board meeting call Whitman at 375-9809.

Big Sur Marathon hits road Sunday

FOR THE FIRST time in 25 years 9 a.m. Sunday mass will be cancelled at the Carmelite Monastery.

No acts of heaven prompted this scheduling change, but rather the commotion of more than 1,800 track shoe-clad diehards traversing a stretch of U.S. Highway 1 that starts one kilometer south of Pfeiffer Big Sur State Park and winds down at the Crossroads Shopping Village in Carmel.

That's 26.2 miles of ocean views and bridge crossings that may be for the most part overlooked by runners who will be testing the limits of physical endurance. The first Big Sur International Marathon, a project more than a year in the planning by its organizer, Monterey County Municipal Court Judge William Burleigh, arrives Sunday, April 27.

Not only the athletes have had to train for the Big Sur International Marathon. The California Department of Transportation and California Highway Patrol will be working in tandem to keep traffic moving, if slowly, along Highway 1 during race time.

Both agencies advise that visitors refrain from traveling this section of Highway 1 from 6:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. Sunday. For those who will drive the stretch between Rio Road and the race start at Pfeiffer Big Sur State Park, the highway patrol will lead eight convoys, four northbound and four southbound.

The first southbound convoy is scheduled to depart the Rio Road race finish at 7:30 a.m. The first northbound convoy is to leave the starting line at Big Sur at 8:30 a.m. Emergency vehicles, if needed, will take precedence and interrupt the convoys. Unescorted, non-official vehicles will be prohibited.

Consultant for this first marathon in Big Sur is Frank Shorter, Olympic marathon gold medalist.

According to organizers, this marathon should be rated as "difficult." Runners were advised via their information packets that "It is not a record-setting course. Unless you have a chance to win your division, we recommend that you plan a measured, enjoyable run. Add about 20 minutes to your expected time, walk when necessary, especially on the most difficult hills (Hurricane Point)."

Registration to run in the marathon is $40 per person. Sign-ups will be accepted 1 to 5 p.m. weekdays at the marathon office, located near the Bagel Bakery at 151 Crossroads Blvd. in the Crossroads Shopping Village, Rio Road off Highway 1, Carmel. Late registration will also be taken Saturday in the main lodge of Highlands Inn in Carmel Highlands.

The marathon is sanctioned by the Pacific Association of the Athletics Congress (PA-TAC) and the Association of Road Racing Athletes (ARRA). It is also a registered non-profit corporation formed to produce revenue for Monterey County charities.

A race finish celebration has been organized at the Crossroads. Area charities will offer refreshments for sale on Saturday to those who are not inclined to run marathons, and the Monterey Bay Symphony will contribute music as runners cross the line.

Address for the Big Sur International Marathon is Box 222620, Carmel, CA 93911. For additional marathon information, contact the office at 625-6226.

Old-fashioned fun rules during Good Old Days

AN OLD-FASHIONED home town atmosphere will pervade Pacific Grove during its annual Good Old Days celebration, which returns Friday through Sunday, April 25-27.

The pleasures of yesteryear will be recalled via such activities as a Victorian home tour, parade, arts and crafts fair, quilt show, pie-eating contest and Laurel and Hardy film festival.

Events, including the Victorian home tour, are all located within walking distance of each other. Following is an activities schedule for this year's Good Old Days celebration. For more information, call the Pacific Grove Chamber of Commerce, 373-3304.

Friday, April 25

Good Old Days will kick off at 10 a.m. with the celebration of the 100th anniversary of the Pacific Grove post office. A special cancellation of stamped envelopes will be offered through the Chamber of Commerce booth at the arts and crafts fair.

New this year is a wooden shaft golf tournament, set to begin at 1 p.m. Sign-up for the nine-hole tournament will take place at the Pacific Grove Golf Links pro shop. Contestants must play with wooden shafted clubs and wear latter-day golf attire. There will be prizes in several categories. Entry fee is $5.

Saturday, April 26

Handicrafts from wooden toys to quilts will be available for purchase during the arts and crafts fair, scheduled 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. behind the Bank of America, 601 Lighthouse Ave. Refreshments will also be available, running the gamut from hot dogs to frozen yogurt.

More than 35 entries are expected to roll during the annual parade, which will begin at 10 a.m. downtown. A highlight of this, the largest parade in the town's history, will be the appearance of the Wells Fargo stagecoach.

Entertainment will be the order of the celebration from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Performers will congregate in the vicinity of the arts and crafts fair.

The Heritage Society of Pacific Grove and the Monterey Peninsula Quilters Guild again present the quilt show. Both antique and contemporary quilts will be displayed 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. at Chautauqua Hall, Central Avenue and 16th Street. Admission is $2.50 general, $2 for senior citizens.

Mayor Florus Williams will introduce dignitaries during the opening ceremonies which will begin 11 a.m. at the arts and crafts fair stage.

The children's pie-eating contest will be launched at 1 p.m. near the arts and crafts fair. Children ages 5 to 12 may sign up for the contest at the Pacific Grove Chamber of Commerce, Forest and Central avenues, Pacific Grove. Pre-registration is a must.

At 2 p.m. the firefighters' water ball fight will dominate Lighthouse Avenue between 16th and 17th streets. The Pacific Grove Volunteer Fire Department will challenge other crews for water ball supremacy.

OLIVER HARDY AND Stan Laurel co-star in a collection of their comedy classics to be screened at 5:30 p.m. Saturday by the Sons of the Desert. The program, part of the Good Old Days Celebration in Pacific Grove, will be presented at Robert Down School, 12th and Pine.

Young pianists will perform during music society competition

THREE OF CALIFORNIA'S most promising pianists under the age of 31 will perform at 8 p.m. Saturday, April 26, in Sunset Theater, Carmel.

The three will be the winners of the 1986 Carmel Music Society Competition. The public is invited without charge or reservations to both the competition and the winners' recital.

The competition will take place from 10 a.m. to noon and 1:30 to 4 p.m. Saturday. Judges are Adolf Baller of Stanford University, Nohema Fernandez of U.C. Santa Cruz and Wolfgang Fetsch of the University of the Pacific Conservatory.

The winners will be announced and will perform in a recital at 8 p.m.

There are eight final competitors, drawn from 38 who submitted tapes to a screening committee consisting of Dorothy Heer of Salinas, Camille Olaeta of Monterey and Wade Parks of Monterey.

The Carmel Music Society is the oldest non-profit concert organization on the Monterey Peninsula. The competition it sponsors is open to pianists between the ages of 18 and 30. The $2,500 grand prize will consist of a $1,500 cash award and $1,000 contract to appear the following year on the Carmel Music Society's Subscription Series. A $750 second prize, $500 third prize and five $100 prizes will also be awarded.

Mozart's 'Requiem' to be presented

THE MONTEREY PENINSULA Choral Society will present Mozart's Requiem at 8 p.m. Friday, Saturday and Sunday, April 25, 26 and 27, in the Carmel Mission Basilica. The concerts are performed under the direction of David Rupert.

Included on the program will be Mozart's Eine Kleine Nachtmusik.

Soloists for the Requiem are David Cox-Cresswell, bass; Randall Cooper, tenor; Marcia Hunt, alto; and Darnelle Scarbrough, soprano. Scarbrough, a former Santa Cruz resident, has performed with the Boston University Opera Theatre, the San Francisco State Opera Theater and the Utah Symphony. She has also studied at the Tanglewood Music Center, and is a recipient of several awards from the center. This is her first appearance with the Monterey Peninsula Choral Society.

The Choral Society will be joined by the Santa Cruz-based Masters Society, creating a group of 100 voices. Accompanying the choir will be Rosamond Rogers Crowley, organist, and a 22-piece orchestra.

Tickets for the society's spring concerts are $8 in advance; $9 at the door. Advance tickets may be obtained by sending a check, specifying choice of evening, to the Choral Society at P.O. Box 272, Carmel 93921. A self-addressed, stamped envelope should be enclosed. Additional information about tickets may be obtained by calling 646-4632. There are no reserved seats in the mission.

The Requiem was Mozart's final work. It was commissioned in the summer of 1791 under mysterious circumstances. The stranger who requested it was not Antonio Salieri, as was hypothesized in the recent motion picture Amadeus, but Count Franz von Walsegg, an amateur musician who commissioned works from professional composers and performed them under his own name.

Mozart was not able to finish the Requiem, as he became seriously ill in the late autumn of 1791. The work was completed, with the help of Mozart's oral instructions and written sketches, by a pupil, Franz Xavier Sussmayr. Mozart died in Vienna on December 5, 1791.

The Monterey Peninsula Choral Society is the peninsula's oldest performing vocal group. It was started in 1962 by former symphony conductor John Gosling, and is now headed by David Rupert of Santa Cruz, who serves as the group's conductor and music director. The Choral Society numbers 75 performing members, all volunteers from the community, and performs two concerts each year, one at Christmas and one in the spring.

AT THE CHERRY FOUNDATION

BY LINDA COPPENS

THE FOUNDATION will celebrate its 38th year of incorporation next month, and details of festivities will be forthcoming. We are also, however, looking toward the future.

At the April board meeting, we approved the foundation's first long-range plan, a document that has been in the drafting stage for many months.

Among our objectives are to better serve the community with a larger and more varied offering of classes, activities and program. We welcome ideas and suggests from readers.

We have a wonderful art exhibit here this month, a series of ink drawings by Salinas artist Harry Pattee. These intricate and graceful portrayals of animals and people are most unusual. Some have a Southwestern or Northwestern flavor; others are reminiscent of Steinberg's art. Harry is self-taught. He has always felt close to nature, and his love and feeling for the natural are well expressed in his art. Do come and view this exhibit; it will continue until April 30.

Watercolor technique demonstrated

The Central Coast Art Association is sponsoring an art demonstration of traditional watercolor techniques by Anita De Carlo. The free program will begin at 7:30 p.m. Monday, April 28 in room 10 of Sunset Center, San Carlos at Ninth, Carmel. For details, call 375-5516.

Volksmarchers travel Garland Park

Garland Ranch Regional Park in Carmel Valley will provide the setting for a 10 kilometer, non-competitive walk sanctioned by the American Volkssport Association (AVA).

The fourth annual volksmarch, sponsored by the Monterey Peninsula Wanderfreunde Volksmarch Club, is set for Saturday and Sunday, April 26-27.

The walk will start and finish at the Garland Ranch Regional Park visitor's center, located 8.6 miles east of Highway 1 adjacent to Carmel Valley Road in Carmel Valley. Start time will be from 8:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. All walkers must be off the trail prior to 4 p.m.

The walk will be 10 kilometers in length, or 6.2 miles. For added exercise, it may be walked twice for no additional fee. Water will be furnished at the control point and the start/finish.

The walk is not suitable for strollers or wheelchairs. The trail rating is moderately difficult, all in fields or woods. There will be hills, steps and rocky or rooted paths.

The walk is open to everyone. Children under 12 must be accompanied by an adult. Pets must be controlled at all times, either restricted on a leash not more than seven-feet long or under immediate voice command. The event may be walked for free, but all participants must carry a start card.

The registration fee to obtain IVV event and distance credit is $5. The volksmarch will take place regardless of the weather.

For more information about the fourth annual volksmarch, call 384-0218 or 649-8751.

Historic adobes open their doors during 39th annual public tour

SOME 28 HISTORIC homes and buildings will be open during the 39th annual Adobe Tour sponsored by the Monterey History and Art Association.

Spring flowers and costumed hostesses will welcome visitors and answer questions about the structures, many of them built in the days of Spanish rule in Monterey.

Tour hours will be 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday, April 26. Tickets are $7 general, $4 for students and enlisted military and $1 for children under 12 who are accompanied by an adult. Tickets can be purchased at the any of the homes open during the tour, or in advance from the Monterey History and Art Association, 372-2608.

Theme of the tour this year is "Monterey — A City of Many Cultures." The adobe tour is a self-guided walking tour. Parking will be available in lots and parking garages on the streets of Monterey. There will be no accommodations for baby strollers or wheelchairs.

The diversity of the populations that have settled in Monterey is reflected in the day's activities. Historian and author Sandy Lydon, author of Chinese Gold, will discuss the history of the Chinese in Monterey during a lecture at the House of Four Winds.

James Kinney will stage God's Matador at California's First Theater. He is the author of this one-man show about the life of California mission founder Junipero Serrra.

Pacific House will be the setting for the exhibit of a doll house and antique clothing assembled by the Costume Committee of the Monterey History and Art Association. In Colton Hall visitors can view the J.K. and Myron Oliver photograph collection, which includes many never before shown images of turn-of-the-century Monterey.

Adhering to tradition, the Doubletree Hotel will serve a bakers' breakfast at 9 a.m. in the Memory Garden near the Customs House. From 10:30 a.m. to noon a military color guard will be stationed at the Custom House near Old Fisherman's Wharf.

Refreshments will be available throughout the day. Included in the ticket price is a tea that will be served at Casa Serrano, 412 Pacific St. Hours will be 10 a.m. to noon and 2 to 5 p.m.

The Junior League will serve luncheon in the Old Whaling Station on Decatur Street from 11 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. Meal price is $5.

Wine and cheese will be available in the Memory Garden on Oliver Street from noon to 4 p.m. Price is $2. Cider will be served in the Joseph Boston Store at Case del Oro on Oliver Street from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Three sites not often included in the tour will be open this year: the Lara Adobe on Pierce Street, now housing offices of the Monterey Institute of International Studies; the Joaquin Adobe, 5 Via Joaquin, housing the offices of Planned Parenthood and the U.S. Army Museum at the Presidio of Monterey.

THEATER REVIEW
BY JOANNE TENENBAUM

'Curate Shakespeare' tackles modern angst, fumbles

ON STAGE AT the GroveMont Theater in New Monterey is The Curate Shakespeare: As You Like It, which GroveMont has billed as "Don Nigro's hilarious farce, being the record of one company's attempt to perform the play by William Shakespeare."

So I begin from a point of puzzlement. Directed by Jeff Hudelson, Curate Shakespeare does not appear to me to be a farce. Nor did I find it hilarious. Reasonably funny some of the time, over-earnestly philosophical in a bargain basement sort of way some of the time, but hilarious and farcical? No.

But that's not the central problem. The central problem is that, when you base a play on another play, you place on the audience the burden of being familiar with the play you are basing your play on (as it were). Without this knowledge, the audience is likely to come away believing that what it just sat through was a small company's attempt to perform a Shakespearean play. Worse, they may even think they've seen a Shakespearean play. And in the case of Curate, that's not what's happening at all.

Although the script itself is not well worked out, some very thought-provoking things are happening in it, and the audience members who walk in cold are going to miss them all, through no fault of their own.

Shakespeare's As You Like It is a symphony of gentle arguments set up to explore from many angles the polarities of civilized life (court vs. country, nature vs. city life, youth vs. age, realism vs. romanticism, and many more) and finally to reconcile them in as perfect a balance as Shakespeare could conjure, given the limitations of human nature as he saw them. Those who know at least this much will find Curate Shakespeare interesting if not always entertaining because playwright Nigro plays off this basic world view and constantly contrasts it with his own vision of the utter incomprehensibility of modern life.

The basic situation is this. In an indistinguishable setting (nonrepresentationally painted walls, wooden boxes, and two trunks), seven casually clad people meet to perform Shakespeare's As You Like It. Their number has been diminished through the death by drug overdose of the actress who was to play Phebe, the shepherdess (an ironic comment on the healthfulness of bucolic life, get it?) and by the absence of their would-be Orlando, who has gone off to be a professional wrestler. (Shakespeare's Orlando is a dandy wrestler, so presumably this actor is meant to have gone off in a fugue of over-identification with his character.)

Among the players remaining, there are other problems, not the least of which is that all the actors are referred to by the names of their characters (which are printed on their T-shirts). So it's hard to tell whether we are watching actors trying to perform a play or a bunch of refugee characters from a dismantled production, trying to exist in some new, diminished way.

Shakespeare's Rosalind never loses her mental balance despite her banishment to the Forest of Arden (a fairy tale setting) and her makeshift disguise as a young man. The Curate's Rosalind, we are told in Scene 1, has gone mad and therefore cannot play her part. Instead, this Rosalind functions throughout as chorus, critic and minstrel, patching holes in The Curate Shakespeare through which all of us might otherwise fall.

The first half of Curate Shakespeare sets all this up and includes pep talks from the Curate himself (Seth Ulman whose shaggy silver mane and impressive beard reinforce his presence as both theatrical and divine director). We watch minor characters try to assume the roles of major ones with much faltering and reluctance.

The conversion of Audrey, a country wench, into the savvy Rosalind is skillfully played by Dorian Ellis. On a more broadly comic level, Phillip Pratt's Amiens cum Oliver drags a stage fright stricken William cum Orlando (William Matthew Riedl) through a very funny scene, and Paul Gaucher's spidery bad guy wrestler is a comic gem. Connie Erickson's tantrummy Celia is also a bright spot.

In the second half, we get, pound for pound, more mangled Shakespeare and less cast byplay. Such shoptalk as there is is overladen with hackneyed messages ("Where the scene is going may be outside your control, but the style in which you play it is largely up to you"). Such glaring thematic messages weaken what is, for a start, an engaging script concept not fully worked out.

The Curate Shakespeare often lags, especially in the first half, and often leaves the audience confused by bits of action from As You Like It that are too truncated to make much sense. There are, however, some sprightly performances by new faces on the peninsula stage: Seth Ulman as the Curate, Eileen Stroud as the choral Rosalind, and Dorian Ellis as Audrey/Rosalind all acquit themselves as performers to look forward to in other local productions.

Psychic fair comes to MPC

Auras will be photographed and cards read during the Spring Festival and Psychic Fair, set to arrive Saturday and Sunday, April 26-27, at the Monterey Peninsula College student center.

The second annual fair will feature readers, psychics, astrologers, numerologists and spiritual healers.

In addition to readings, there will be free workshops, classes and demonstrations given by specialists in various fields.

Books, crystals, tapes and local crafts will be available for purchase.

Admission is $3 for one day or $5 for both. This includes entry in drawings for free readings and gifts, plus all lectures and workshops.

Hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday and 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday. Doors open one-half hour earlier for registration.

The college is at 980 Fremont Blvd. in Monterey. For festival information, call 625-5792.

Arcade-style photos inspired new exhibit at Friends

A slide-illustrated lecture by the artist will be presented at 7:30 p.m. April 25 in Room 20 of Carmel's Sunset Center, followed by an opening reception in The Friends Gallery until 10 p.m. Regular gallery hours are 1 to 5 p.m. daily.

Linda Robbennolt received her B.A. degree in communications from the University of South Dakota in 1973 and her M.F.A. in photography from the University of Oklahoma in 1982. She was the 1985 recipient of The Friends of Photography's Ferguson Grant, and in 1983 she was awarded a National Endowment for the Arts/Mid-America Artists Alliance Grant to Emerging Artists.

Robbennolt draws on the arcade photo practice of making photographs with people's heads and arms poking through painted backdrops, but the resulting images are more than a new twist of a turn-of-the-century cliche. Robbennolt plans each image as a composition that will elicit emotional responses from the viewer. In preparing the scenes for her cardboard backdrops, she uses her love of visual jokes and her fascination with religious iconography, as well as an understanding of human reactions to fear, fantasy and sexuality.

Robbennolt paints her scenes, allowing the texture of the cardboard and corrugations of the cutout sections to be visible, thereby accentuating the conceptual nature of the work. When a number of painted backdrops are completed, she assembles friends to poke heads and limbs through the holes and photographs these brightly colored, peopled props. The images are printed on Cibachrome paper, which heightens the intensity of the colors. Tension is created through the contrast between the three-dimensional human forms and the flat, painted cardboard, as well as through the viewer's discomfort with "severed" body parts.

For further information, call 624-6330.

Team Alinder images showcased

JASMINE ALINDER, a junior at Robert Louis Stevenson School, and her father, James Alinder, executive director of The Friends of Photography, will open an exhibition of their photographs in the Morse Gallery on the Stevenson campus on Friday, April 25.

The Friday evening opening reception will be from 5:30 to 7:30. Both artists will be present at the opening. The exhibit will run through May 18.

Miss Alinder received her first camera at birth, but has actively been photographing for the past year. She is an honor student, writes for the school newspaper, is active in the drama department and on the softball team, and is a member of Safe Rides.

James Alinder has been executive director of The Friends of Photographry for nine years. Since his arrival in Carmel, The Friends has grown to become the largest creative photography membership organization in the world.

His photographs have been included in more than 75 museum exhibitions, and are also part of the permanent collections of the Museum of Modern Art, National Gallery of Canada, Art Institute of Chicago, George Eastman House, National Gallery of Australia, San Francisco Museum of Modern Art and the Victoria and Albert Museum.

A book of his photographs, Picture America, was published by New York Graphic Society Books in 1982. He has authored and edited a number of other photography books and also serves as a juror for several major photography festivals.

For more information about the exhibit at Robert Louis Stevenson, call 624-1257 ext. 311.

WINTER TREES, Massachusetts, 1986, is among the images by Jasmine Alinder that will be featured at Morse Gallery at Robert Louis Stevenson School, Pebble Beach.

ROUNDUP

Slide show focuses on Big Mountain

The planned relocation of the Navajo people of Big Mountain, Ariz. will be the focus of a slide show produced with music and narration. The Navajo community, led by the elder women, is resisting forced removal from the ancestral homeland.

Titled In Defense of Sacred Land, the slide show will be presented at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, April 30 in the community room of Monterey Public Library, 625 Pacific St., Monterey. For information, call 484-9648.

Artichoke recipes sought

The Castroville Artichoke Festival is sponsoring a recipe contest using fresh, frozen, marinated or brined California artichokes. The contest is open to professional and amateur cooks.

The only recipe requirements are that they be original and call for California artichokes. To enter, send a typed copy of the recipe to "Artichoke Recipe Contest," Box 1041, Castroville, CA 95012. Include your name, restaurant name (if appropriate), address and telephone number. Deadline for entries is June 1. There will a cash award of $250 for the first prize winner. A $100 second prize will be awarded. For details, call 633-2878 or 633-2726.

'Pipe Dream' auditions continue

Singers, dancers and actors will be auditioned for the Forest Theater summer production of Rodgers and Hammerstein's Pipe Dream.

The musical is based upon the John Steinbeck novel Sweet Thursday. Musical performers will be asked to perform a prepared, two-minute song. Accompaniment will be provided. All performers must be able to dance.

Auditions will take place from 1 to 4 p.m. Saturday, April 26, at the Outdoor Forest Theater, Mountain View and Santa Rita in Carmel.

Students plan free car wash

Valley Christian Academy students will present a free "super scrub car wash" from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, April 26 at the Shell Gas Station, Fremont Boulevard and Canyon del Rey, Seaside.

To sponsor a student for the total cars washed, call 394-6313.

AAUW plans general meeting

The Monterey Peninsula Branch of the American Association of University Women will present a general meeting and potluck supper at 5:30 p.m. Tuesday, April 29. AAUW members and the public are invited to attend the program, which will take place in the community room of The Crossroads, Rio Road off Highway 1, Carmel.

AAUW promotes equity for women, education and self-development. To inquire about membership or what dish to bring to the dinner, call 372-5410, evenings only.

Support group for the sexually abused

The Monterey Rape Crisis Center operates a free weekly support group for victims of rape, incest, sexual assault or molestation.

The group is open to both men and women, and meets 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. each Thursday. Educational psychologist Jaquiline Fobes coordinates the group. For more information, call 373-3955.

Cheerleading tryouts planned

Monterey Peninsula Youth Football will conduct cheerleading tryouts for the upcoming football season at 9 a.m. Saturday, May 3 at the Pacific Grove Middle School Field, Fountain and Sinex in Pacific Grove.

Training sessions to demonstrate the cheers will be offered 4:45 to 6:45 p.m. Friday, Monday, Wednesday and Friday, April 25, 28, 30 and May 2 in the Pacific Grove Middle School gym.

Monterey Peninsula Youth Football is a non-profit, community-supported youth organization sponsoring two teams: the Redskins, ages 9 to 11, and the 49ers, ages 11 to 13. For details, call 625-6110 or 757-8877.

BEHIND THE LINES

BY MICHAEL GARDNER

and the Ugly with poise and grace;

"Now therefore we, the League of Women Voters of California, do hereby declare this Lorita Fisher Day."

INDIAN GIVERS

Two of the three Cypress trees Clint presented to outgoing council members April 15th were still at city hall Monday.

Let's hope they were just inadvertently forgotten.

Let's close this week's column with a break from the city political scene and switch to the weekend. Now on a sunny weekend with temps in the 80s I'm sure we all have stories to tell about what we did. But it's doubtful that anyone can top Bob Infelise.

Bob's weekend story begins before he was superintendent of the Carmel Unified School District when, as a constant traveler, he stayed enough nights at the Inter-Continental Hotel chain to earn a free trip to Europe.

At first Bob planned to use the comp ticket to visit the middle school students on a two-week exchange program in Barcelona, Spain.

But then Reagan bombed Libya and the students were hurriedly rushed back home and there was Bob with a free ticket, but filled with doubts about braving the Meditteranean.

"Hawaii," Infelise smiled, but the ticket was only good for the 48 continental United States and Europe.

So Infelise rings up an old pal in Washington, D.C. and the two spend the weekend on the capital's golf courses.

That should be the end of the story, but it isn't. Bob's return plane missed the Chicago connection and the airline wouldn't pay for him to connect with another carrier to get him to San Francisco.

So Bob had to pay for a flight and could only get into Oakland Sunday night. His car, meanwhile, was parked at San Francisco International. The cabbie wanted $50 so Bob wandered down to Hertz and picked up a rent-a-car for $39, unlimited mileage.

Bob drove to Carmel, did some work on Monday, and then drove back to San Francisco to drop off the rent-a-car. Then it was off to Sacramento Monday afternoon for a lobbying session with legislators.

Bob's once-free weekend cost him about $150 in airline and car rental payments. Still a bargain.

DEATH

OK, I exaggerated a little, but here's my problem. I built an English Tudor mansion. It came out nice. Then I had 4 children, ages 1-6, that was nice too (don't ask my wife), but we were playing the grand ballroom one day and when we counted heads Mortimer was lost. We looked in the guest house, the wine cellar, in the pool, on the tennis court but he was gone. Well, four days later we found him in the library, filed under "M", but my mind was made up. The house was just too big. Children are more important than money. So, what I got is 8 acres, 20,000 square feet and 5 tons of Italian marble. I'll take 3.6M OBO (I'll throw in my 1978 Volvo) — I say leave Carmel to Clint and make my day.

A PRIVATE KINGDOM

Miles and Miles of White Water Waves, crashing against rocky cliffs — range upon range of awe-inspiring mountains marching to the horizon, lush green farm lands tucked into the valleys. This is your view from atop Division Knoll, a 50 acre, one-of-a-kind holding just 13 miles south of Carmel. A gated entry to the private road assures total privacy for the superbly constructed residence at the crest of the Knoll. Built in 1954 and up-dated in 1980, the home features a spacious living room, formal dining room, library, gourmet kitchen, plus 3 bedrooms, including the master suite with its spectacular window walled spa. Truly a world class property for those who demand the finest and the most unusual. Please call us for an appointment for a private showing.

PEBBLE BEACH

A VERY GRACIOUS LIFESTYLE. European elegance near Cypress Point! A magnificent residence of over 4500 square feet, designed in the grand manner of yesterday with 22 foot ceilings and 8 foot doors, yet offering the finest of today's technology. Four spacious bedrooms, 3 baths, formal dining room, large family room, all on a level 1⅓ acre property. $925,000.

CASUAL ELEGANCE IN AN ENCHANTED SETTING. An elegant 12 room estate on the 17 Mile Drive with 4 bedrooms and 4½ baths, including a 3 room with bath apartment. The stately Georgian home, backed by huge pine and cypress trees, is close to Pebble Beach Golf Course, the Lodge, stables and the Lone Cypress. Set well back from the road on 1.14 landscaped acres many of the authentic Georgian designed rooms and the large terrace view the Pacific Ocean. Fairhaven is warmed by 4 beautiful fireplaces made from deluxe materials such as Italian marble and handsome painted tiles. $1,800,000.

CARMEL VALLEY

LIKE HEAVEN ON EARTH. A dream come true! On over 15 acres of peaceful rolling hillside you'll find a totally charming country house, professionally designed to take advantage of the almost 360° view. There's a delightful separate guest house complete with it's own kitchen, and a sun drenched swimming pool. Lots of room for horses, too! $445,000.

SPECIAL OWNER FINANCING. One of the lowest priced units in Carmel Valley Ranch and only one of two with this unique floor plan. In immaculate condition and totally upgraded. Features 2 bedrooms, 3 baths a garden room with tile floor and glass roof. Beautifully appointed and color coordinated — tile, wallpaper, carpeting. Borders greenbelt. $279,000.

CARMEL VALLEY AT ITS MOST ENCHANTING!! A flower lined drive will lead you to the door of a most impressive, redwood and stone residence. The front door opens to perfection. Every detail of this handsome home has been thoughtfully implemented — from the luxurious two-room Master bedroom suite to the "award winning" kitchen. To complete this elegant 3½ acre estate...a delightful guest house, a "sunwashed" swimming pool, a "willow tree shaded" duck pond, and stylish accommodations for horses. Call today for an appointment to see. $1,300,000.

TOTAL PERFECTION. On 3 beautiful acres with 360° views we proudly offer a luxurious 4,100 sq. ft., 4 bedroom, 4 bath home in an "estate setting." From the lush lawn and pebbled concrete walks which surround the pool to the marvelous floor plan, here is a property which is a complete integration of design amenities. Of course, there is air conditioning, circular driveway, special interior and exterior lighting, private master suite with "his and hers" baths, studio with northern light and guest quarters. $1,150,000.

MONTEREY

HISTORIC RESIDENCE. Pure Romance! A home that speaks of a gracious by-gone age, surrounded by Victorian gardens with clipped hedges and lovely lawns. Inside a drawing room and formal dining room with 10 foot ceilings and crystal chandeliers. There are 2 bedroom suites, one reached by a winding stairway, the other with separate entrance, and a view that sweeps from Fisherman's Wharf to Mt. Toro in the distance. $295,000.

CELEBRATE THE GOOD LIFE! Enjoy the best of all worlds. Just close the door and fly off to wherever without a care in the world. Then, return to your castle in the sky with its 180 degree ocean views, its lush green lawns and manicured gardens (all completely maintained in your absence), its complete security and its spacious interior. (You'll say there's no place like home!!) Three bedrooms, two baths, dining room and an absolutely beautiful living room. $289,500.

UNIQUE! F. Scott Fitzgerald might have been a guest here! He'd have loved the terraced gardens leading down to the swimming pool, the sun-filled rooms and the French doors leading to decks and patios. 1920 ambiance updated to 1986....Five bedrooms, including a possible guest suite, and 3 baths. All on an acre property minutes from downtown Monterey. $449,500.

Kitchens and more at Seger's in Carmel

Remodeling the kitchen or bathroom can make homeowners' dreams become reality. It can also pay off handsomely when selling a home.

"The main advantage of remodeling is getting exactly what you want," states Bob Seger, owner of Seger's Kitchens And More in Carmel. "So be aggressive. Hire a good architect and stress design. That's the best way to create a new home environment specifically tailored to your living patterns."

An architect for more than three decades, Seger points out that interest rates for second mortgages and home improvement loans are now the lowest since 1979.

"But using your home's equity isn't the only financial benefit," he adds. "Loan interest is deductible on your income tax. So is money spent on home improvements."

Industry sources claim home sellers recover 75 to 125 percent of a kitchen remodeling's cost, and 50 to 100 percent of a bathroom's cost.

"A remodeled kitchen or bath becomes an enduring and pleasurable extension of your living space," Seger said. "But if you ever sell, these rooms are also what home buyers look at first — and most critically."

Say hello to new awnings that work automatically

Automobiles have come a long way since the days when Henry Ford introduced the automobile to assembly lines. Among the many innovations over the years were automatic starters and transmissions as well as power steering and brakes.

Awnings have also changed but most people aren't aware of it. Whenever they want a little shade, many homeowners still go outdoors and crank the awnings open. When the sun goes down, the weather turns cloudy or it begins to rain, they trek back outdoors and crank them shut.

Now there's an easier way. The old-fashioned hand crank has been replaced with a motorized device that raises and lowers awnings, shades, screens and rolling shutters as well as interior shades for skylights, greenhouses and atriums.

It's all done automatically with a sun-wind sensor or at the touch of a button. A wireless command that is easy to install and includes a receiver that plugs into any wall outlet and a compact transmitter is also available. The hand-held wireless command allows the awnings to be opened and closed or stopped at any position in between.

The sun-wind sensor, available as an option, performs a dual function. The sun sensor extends the awnings automatically on sunny days. On days when the wind begins to blow in gusts, the wind sensor automatically closes the awnings to prevent tearing.

Though motorized devices can save a homeowner's energy, the awnings themselves can save energy. On a sunny day, for instance, awnings can lower indoor temperature by as much as 15 degrees. That's often enough to maintain indoor comfort without the need for air conditioning. And, besides the charm they add to the appearance of a home, awnings prevent sunlight from fading carpets, drapes and upholstery.

Portable spas add to outdoor living

The Great Outdoors just got better. Acrylic spas are the perfect addition to the landscape around your home. Now, the deck in your backyard can become an entertainment center — for up to 10 friends or just the family.

Your investment in a spa now offers year-round payback, too. Because many of the acrylic spas on today's market are completely portable, you can enjoy the soothing comfort of a spa year-round. When the cool weather rolls in, simply move the spa inside for uninterrupted pleasure through the winter months.

Some manufacturers make acrylic spas that are totally self-contained, not hooked to plumbing. That's the key to portability. Pumps, filters and other parts are integrated into each unit, so set-up is easy and portability guaranteed. You can complete the job yourself without hiring an outside contractor, to save money without sacrificing one bit of the enjoyment afforded by a spa.

Acrylic is available in a variety of colors and can be molded to virtually any size or configuration. You can choose from a number of designs that perfectly complement your deck or patio.

Why the Robinsons' home is 15 times less likely to be robbed than yours.

protected by ADT SECURITY SYSTEMS

It's protected by ADT®. And with this special offer, you can purchase ADT's Safewatch® Home Security System for only $995, or $29.95 per month*, installed.

Fact. The majority of homes burglarized each year do not have a security system. Fact. With an ADT Security System, the chances of your home being robbed drops dramatically from 1 in 3 to 1 in 50. That's why families like the Robinsons are turning to ADT for reliable, affordable, effective security.

ADT — trusted for over 100 years.
Nationwide, ADT has helped protect everything from Fortune 500 companies to thousands of American households. And with a network of local offices, our security specialists can install and service an ADT Security System in your neighborhood.

Simple to operate.
Your basic ADT Safewatch System includes magnetic contacts to help protect doors, a dual motion detector that can pick up the movement of a potential intruder, and a smoke detection system that can warn of smoke or fire. All are simply operated from a control panel with built-in siren and emergency call buttons. All can be linked to a nearby ADT Central Monitoring Station, manned 24 hours a day, 7 days a week. (There's a small monthly charge for this service.) ADT Safewatch can even help you qualify for lower rates on your homeowners insurance.

Easy to afford.
Now for only $995, or $29.95 per month*, installed, with our low-cost monthly purchase plan, it has never been so affordable to protect your family. ADT Safewatch.

Carriage Trade Interiors offers complete service

Carriage Trade Interiors has long been known for its fine workmanship in the fabrication and installation of Roman shades, bedspreads, furniture, upholstery, carpet and wood shutters.

It is one of the few places that offers a complete service, including a vast fabric library, installation of drapery, wood shutters, carpets and upholstered walls.

"Quality, innovation and customer satisfaction are the ideals by which we operate," said Latif Benike, owner and operator of Carriage Trade Interiors.

The benefits of dealing with one source, from the design stage to final installation, makes for a more trouble-free project. The client input at all levels is welcomed. Material selection, design treatment, production techniques, installation procedures, all promote customer satisfaction.

Window treatments can present difficult design problems. This is especially true in our peninsula setting, where builders and architects have often utilized tremendous amounts of glass to take in the magnificent views.

Treating these windows to satisfy privacy, sun protection and insulation requirements (while preserving architectural integrity and enhancing interior design) requires experience and versatility.

Carriage Trade thrives on solving just such problem window treatments as well as all traditional designs.

Upholstered furniture available in today's market has become deceptive in that while it looks good you can be sure that what is under the fabric is not what it used to be. If, for example, a six-foot couch sold for $1,000 in 1965, then the same quality couch would be perhaps two or three times the cost today. The problem is that what used to be hardwood and coil springs is now particleboard, foam rubber and even cardboard.

Resourceful homeowners are discovering that many old pieces have a value you can't buy today. And they are restoring them through re-upholstery. The economics of re-upholstery work; for dollars and cents it can be one of today's best buys.

The value is in the frame. If your old furniture has a good frame (one that's made of hardwood — oak or maple, for example) it has longevity. There is no point in going out and buying new furniture.

A significant advantage in re-upholstering is fabric selection. You choose from a practical, panoramic range of colors and textures. So you can find just about any fabric, at any price, to fit any decor.

Building an old frame (where you save big dollars), the upholsterer re-ties the springs, puts in new webbing, all-new padding and filling, and totally re-creates the furniture. This is all handwork involving a high order of skills. What you get back is a piece of furniture in the class of a custom-made.

Carriage Trade Interiors welcomes your inspection of its showroom and workroom located at 2106 Sunset Drive in Pacific Grove.

New tile makes remodeling bathrooms an easy project

It wasn't too long ago that most bathrooms were as clinical and sterile as hospitals. Not any more. Nowadays, they are loaded with style and glamor. That's one reason why bath remodeling remains such a popular home improvement project year after year.

Updating an outmoded bath needn't be all that expensive either. One of the easiest and least expensive ways to modernize a bath is to use American-made ceramic tile. Here are some ideas courtesy of the Tile Council of America:

• Outdated tile is a common disorder of many baths. Thanks to new designs, colors, styles and techniques, new ceramic tile can be installed over the old surface. This saves time, expenses and mess, and works on floors as well as walls.

• Tile that ends half or three-quarters of the way up the wall is common in older baths. To make the entire wall flush, install gypsum wallboard, then tile the wall from floor to ceiling in an elegant design and an attractive color.

• Consider a one-of-a-kind wall consisting of a wide sash of red on a field of gleaming white or a graphic arrangement simulating a stained glass window. Geometric designs are the easiest to adapt to tile installations.

• Remember that it's simple to tile over linoleum. A tile floor is a good place for that special design.

• Another way to perk up a bath is to install tile on the countertop around a vanity. Or install a tile countertop on a built-in vanity around the sink.

• Bothered by odd architectural features such as ducts or a dormer? Tile in a striking design and color can camouflage these flaws.

• Like the looks of the old bathtub? Consider giving it added stature by setting it on a tiled platform. Or, think about a burgundy red or chocolate brown wall as a sophisticated backdrop for a white tub. To put the tub setting in a country mood, consider a decorative tile wall with a folk-art motif.

Relief is on the way with advent of whirlpool

Imagine the cares of the world slipping away as you sink slowly into a soothing whirlpool. Relief is on the way. And the best part is that you're not fighting the crowd at a club or health spa, you're relaxing in the privacy of your home.

It's not a dream. In fact, having your own whirlpool is now an affordable reality.

With the new acrylic and plastic whirlpools on the market today, adding one is no longer a major home improvement expense. These new products provide whirlpool enjoyment at bathtub prices.

You can create your perfect private hideaway with the variety of designer colors available. Because there are no joints or seams in these new units, standard problems such as leaks, mold and mildew are completely eliminated. Grout and caulk replacement are not needed.

Besides being less expensive than enameled steel or cast iron whirlpools, the plastic and acrylic models give homeowners other benefits. Considerably lighter than their counterparts, these whirlpools are economical to repair. They are inherently slip-resistant, preventing risk of accident, and have built-in amenities such as soap dishes, seating and shelves.

Armstrong Idea House '86 may be the wave of future

If you're planning to buy a home — and lots of people are, now that mortgage rates have fallen so sharply — the chances are you already own one.

First-time buyers no longer dominate the housing market, as they used to. They've been replaced in that role by "trade-up" buyers who, the Wall Street Journal reports, make up more than 60 percent of all home buyers.

Trade-up buyers are generally older, more affluent, often two-income families. They may be "empty nesters" (people whose children have grown up and moved away).

Unlike first-time buyers who are usually happy to get a roof over their heads, trade-up buyers are looking for something more than basic shelter. They want a home — not necessarily a larger one — with more conveniences and amenities whose floor plan suits the way they prefer to live.

Armstrong's Idea House '86 in Lancaster, Pa., was designed expressly with trade-up buyers in mind. Extensive behavioral mapping by company experts confirmed that some rooms of the home (formal living and dining rooms) are seldom used, while others such as eat-in kitchens and TV rooms are in constant use. Idea House '86 was designed to give people a reason to use every room every day.

The layout of the two-story, 2,506-square-foot house is based on the concept of "suites" — multifunctional living areas, not rooms. The core of the house is the three ground-floor suites: a living suite, kitchen suite and master bedroom suite. Upstairs are two bedrooms, one of which doubles as a home office, and a bath.

The interior color scheme takes its cue from the mushroom-colored no-wax floor tiles. They were used throughout the entire house (except in the carpeted bedrooms) to unify the decor and draw it together into a harmonious whole.

The house's many large windows, giving expansive views of the landscaped surroundings, suggested the choice of a pleasing earthy hue like mushroom to blend with the natural environment. The accent color (in area rugs, furniture upholstery and so on) is soft blue. Brass accessories are used.

The house's exterior is cedar siding stained gray with gray windows trim. It has a towering stone chimney.

The living suite has a conversation area, book shelves and fireplace at one end and, at the other, a media wall and another seating arrangement. A cathedral ceiling and loft provide architectural interest to the living suite. (The house's architecture is "post-modern," which combines the best of contemporary and historical design influences.)

The kitchen suite has sleek-lined European-style cabinets in abundance and an array of electrical appliances. But the suite also contains a breakfast nook, a more-formal dining area, a wet bar and a powder room.

Connecting the kitchen and master bedroom suites is a small greenhouse or sun room walled with glass blocks. It's a romantic spot for sitting and chatting, dining a deux in candlelight or having a late-night drink.

IN ADDITION to an informal breakfast nook, Idea House '86's versatile kitchen suite has a more formal dining area, built-in bookcases, a wet bar, powder room and fireplace. In the background can be seen the glass-enclosed central stairwell.

On the kitchen suite side the glass blocks are clear. Where they meet the master suite they're translucent, allowing soft light to filter into the bedroom but protecting the occupants' privacy.

The master bedroom suite has a walk-in closet, a dressing room with skylight, a bathroom with his and her wash basins, an oversized whirlpool tub, a separate shower stall, a canopy bed and comfortable armchairs for reading.

Of special architectural note is the glass-enclosed central stairwell which rises from the basement to the second floor. A large skylight in the roof pours light down the stairs and into the house.

Idea House '86 is energy-efficient. A heat pump and supplemental energy storage system (SESS) go sparingly on the electricity. The SESS system stores heat at night when electric rates are lower and releases it during the day.

Pocket doors permit the suites to be closed off and the temperatures turned down in other parts of the house. In fact, with the doors to the rest of the house shut, the kitchen and master bedroom suites can function as a self-contained apartment for two.

Depending on the builder and the location, Armstrong projects that Idea House '86 will cost approximately $185,000 to $225,000 to erect. The estimate includes land.

To receive a free 12-page brochure on Idea House '86, containing additional information, color photographs and floor plans, write to: Armstrong World Industries, Free Idea House Brochure, P.O. Box 3001, Lancaster, Pa. 17604.

The Secret Garden offers a variety of decorations

"Welcome," reads the little wooden sign. "For the adventurous there is a unique shop hidden down this path. The walk leads to The Secret Garden, and continues through to San Carlos Avenue."

The Secret Garden is plants and gifts, but really much more than that. It is the kind of place you can remember looking for as a child — a secret hideaway, a place to take only your most trusted, dearest friends. The kind of place that was almost a fantasy, except that it was real

Secret Garden specializes in bonsai and topiary, and has all kinds of ferns hanging from beautiful wooden baskets. Lots of plants, trees and shrubs are co-mingled with flowering plants — orchids, violets, flowering kale, and cyclamens which flower in the colder months.

Co-owners Shirley Winter and Phillips Wylly have put together a splendid outdoor shop (which is really a geodesic dome) that is so lovely and relaxing you wish it were a place to have lunch or a cup of tea while you browse for a new houseplant, bird bath or fountain for your garden.

A great little gift item to find here is a special copy of the children's book The Secret Garden by Frances Hodgson Burnett. Hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Saturday and from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Sunday. They also have free delivery in Carmel and to Community Hospital. It's a place where the sound of wind chimes lingers in your ears long after you've left. What a beautiful place to be!

Armstrong offers a 'suite' idea

If your first house no longer suits your lifestyle and you are thinking of your next, you're among the fastest-growing segment of the housing market today — the move-up buyer.

According to research from Armstrong World Industries, move-up buyers want a home that's based on concepts other than the old-fashioned "Grandma's floorplans" with rarely used formal living and dining rooms. They want maximum use of all space, energy efficiency, easy maintenance — and a home that's emotionally satisfying.

With that in mind, Armstrong came up with their model Idea House 1986 based on multifunctional living "suites" designed to be used each and every day. The two-story home has a minimum of inside walls and features ceiling heights, vistas and skylights. Decorating techniques differentiate the rooms, but to unify the individual areas, no-wax floor tiles are used throughout, with the exception of the carpeted bedrooms.

The three basic living areas include: a kitchen suite for cooking, eating and both formal and informal entertaining; a living suite for relaxing, conversation, viewing TV or listening to music; a master bedroom suite for resting and privacy.

The large central hall contains an attractive glass-enclosed staircase, rising from the basement to the second floor. There are two bedrooms and a bath upstairs.

Two popular arrangements are also exotic looking

Two of the flowers popular in floral arrangements these days are so exotic-looking many people don't think they're real. They are the anthurium and the bird of paradise.

The anthurium is a waxy, heart-shaped flower centered with a yellow spike. It's most often seen in red but also comes in pink and white.

A European gardener searching for new varieties of orchids discovered the anthurium in the 1880s in the uplands of Mexico. Today, many commercial anthuriums are grown in Hawaii. Other names for the anthurium are flamingo flower, oilcloth flower and tailflower.

The bird of paradise is from South Africa and is related to the banana. It really does look like a bird's head and combines the six primary and secondary colors.

Here are some tips about this exotic pair:

Anthurium — The spike in the center of the flower should be greenish-yellow when you buy it; it will turn bright yellow as the flower matures. Place anthuriums in shallow water and keep them out of sunlight and away from extreme heat and cold. With proper care, anthuriums will last up to three weeks.

Bird of Paradise — Look for vivid colors when you shop for "birds," as florists call them. If the colors look faded, the flowers may be a bit old. Place birds in very clean vases and add a floral preservative to the water. Preservatives come in a powder that dissolves in water and are available from florists for just a few cents.

Care and patience part of gardening

Gardening by the Yard is a family-owned business. We specialze in plants that add color and beauty to yards where the weather is influenced by the ocean and fog.

We can help you create a low-maintenance yard with drought-resistant plants or nearly litter-free plants around a pool or spa.

Many homes in our area are sheltered by oaks and pines. We can help you select a variety of plants that thrive in the shade. Let us enhance your property value and create more leisure time for you to enjoy your beautiful surroundings.

We offer free estimates to households and small businesses. Our work is guaranteed and we have reasonable rates for daily, weekly or monthly maintenance. Call Gay F. Baldwin at 624-8647 or Mark Baldwin at 646-1651.

Gardening is our business and we will treat your yard the way we do our own — with care and patience. We want to be your yard and garden people.

Garden gypsum conditioning soil

A small investment on your lawn can help produce better soil for more luxurious lawns and flower gardens, and bigger and better vegetables.

If you have soil that crusts when it's dry and puddles when it's wet, chances are you have "heavy" clay soil which restricts healthy root growth. Lawn and garden gypsum will, over time, turn heavy clay into open, "soft" soil. Conditioned soil allows more air, water and nutrients to reach roots throughout the year, enhancing deep root growth and better development for turf and gardens, reducing the amount of fertilizer and water required.

In addition to loosening soil, gypsum supplies plants with two essential nutrients — calcium and sulfate sulfur — and also counteracts lawn damage from the toxic effects of excessive winter de-icing salt.

This natural soil conditioner is harmless to plants, pets and people because it is non-caustic, non-toxic and ecologically safe. It will not significantly alter soil pH (acidity or alkalinity), and can be applied any time. Recommended usage is 50 lbs. per 1,000 square feet.

Popular plants

Among the most popular and delightful flowering plants are the cyclamen, the gloxinia and the kalanchoe, each having its own special appeal.

The cyclamen, with dainty flowers poised gracefully on their stems, comes originally from the Mediterranean region and from parts of Asia and Central Europe. A member of the primrose family, wild forms of cyclamen are mentioned in the Bible as being used to catch fish.

The gloxinia, named for botanical writer Benjamin Gloxin, is native to Brazil and was introduced in England in the early 19th century. There are three major varieties: the bell-shaped fyfiana group, the slightly asymmetrical slipper gloxinia, and the speciosa group, which has smaller flowers.

By contrast, there are more than 200 species of the kalanchoe, which also is called the air plant, life plant, floppers and panda ears. Some kalanchoes have fleshy, tooth-rimmed leaves and several boast spectacular flowers. Kalanchoes can be enjoyed as both flowering plants and as lush green plants when they're not in bloom.

Here are some tips:

- Look for lots of buds when shopping for cyclamens and gloxinias.
- Cyclamens and gloxinias should be kept uniformly moist.
- Kalanchoes should be watered daily while in bloom.

PART OF the beauty of drip irrigation systems is that they are virtually invisible. This beautiful rock and succulent arrangement requires almost no maintenance. For more information contact Drip Irrigation Specialists at the Green Thumb Nursery in Monterey, 375-7100.

Getting ready to reroof? Keep these points in mind

Getting ready to reroof? Knowing what you want can help you get it.

Consider what you want the new roof to look like. How long should it last? What type of shingles should you choose?

Significant technological strides have been made in manufactured roofing in the 15 to 20 years since your home was last reroofed. Take advantage of them, advises the Asphalt Roofing Manufacturers Association.

They include updated design, color, durability and low maintenance. New fiberglass-based and multi-layered asphalt shingles are a dramatic example. These rugged, dimensional asphalt shingles in beautiful earthtone colors give a roof a prestigious textured appearance. They also have a longer design life — up to 25 years or more — than standard shingles and require little maintenance.

When choosing a new roof, keep these points in mind:

- The roof is a basic architectural feature and represents the largest unbroken visual expanse. Don't overlook its importance to overall exterior beauty.
- Use roof color to advantage. Newer earthtone shades in a range of rich browns and warm beiges add eye appeal and help coordinate the house with its environment. Color can also mask some architectural flaws. A dark roof visually lowers a too-tall structure. A light roof gives it height. Since roofs last many years, choose a color that wears well and is compatible with the more frequently changed colors of the siding and trim.
- Determine the roof's annual cost, not just its initial expense. Shingles with a longer design life may actually be more economical in the long run. To figure the probable annual cost, add materials and labor costs and divide the result by the expected years of service.
- When possible, reroof over the old roofing. In most cases, asphalt shingles can be installed over the existing roof.

Take frustration out of shopping for carpeting

Shopping for carpet doesn't have to be a frustrating experience. But with thousands of colors, shades and styles available, it can be confusing.

If you do your homework, though, you can eliminate most of the choices before you even walk into the store. Here are some tips:

Pick a color first. Stand in the room and look around — observe either the way it is or the way you want it to look, and decide what color you want on the floor. Then stick to that color. If you start out wanting blue, don't let yourself get sidetracked by that lovely rose color.

Decide on a look and style. If you are committed to a more casual, relaxed atmosphere for the room, you can consider the bold, exciting multi-color cut-and-loops or other patterns. But if you want more formality, or if you want to maintain flexibility and versatility, stick with solid colors and a Saxony finish.

Know your fibers. Most carpet today is made of nylon, because that is the most durable and practical fiber. But even in nylon there is a wide range in quality and performance capability. For a detailed explanation of why some nylon carpets perform better than others, send for "Understanding Carpet Quality," a new booklet published by Armstrong to help consumers know what they are looking at when they shop for carpet.

The booklet is free, and can help clear up the confusion often associated with fiber types and construction. It also includes tips on shopping and how to use warranties to get the carpet you really want.

For your free copy, write Armstrong Consumer Services, P.O. Box 3001, Lancaster, Pa., 17604.

Modern techniques simplify wallcovering

If you like the look of wallcoverings but hesitate because you lack the skills of a competent home handyman, don't worry. Modern manufacturing techniques have made the art of wallcovering a lot easier.

Choose a wallcovering that is strippable, pre-trimmed and pre-pasted and application all but takes care of itself.

Strippable means the wallcovering can be completely removed from the wall without scraping or steaming.

Pre-trimmed is wallcovering from which the edges have been trimmed to make it ready for installation.

Pre-pasted means that all you have to do is dip the strip of wallcovering in water to activate the adhesive on the backing.

A good place for first timers to begin, says the Wallcovering Information Bureau, is in a hallway or foyer where there are fewer breaks and angles as well as windows or doors. Start in a corner where any mistake will be less noticeable.

Decorating stores, home centers, department stores and paint and wallpaper stores are all excellent sources for advice on the amount of wallcoverings you'll need.

Remember to bring along the dimensions of the room where you plan to install the wallcoverings. These retail outlets are also good sources for information about wallcovering styles, colors and patterns.
